

Reading Light replies to Wilmington's issues

The Reading Municipal Light Board has issued a statement, responding to positions and issues raised by the Town of Wilmington and the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

Wilmington has filed petitions with the Mass. Dept. of Public Utilities seeking review of the rates and practices of Reading Light. One point raised by Wilmington is that the Reading Light board is elected only by Reading voters, with no political input from the other towns served by Reading Light.

Representation on the board, according to the statement, aside from being illegal, is administratively absurd. The statement likens Wilmington's position to the idea of Reading asking for a position on the Boston Edison board of directors.

The statement also charges that most of the Wilmington issues have little basis in fact.

The full text of the Reading Light Board statement follows:

A statement to the citizens of Reading and ratepayers of the Reading Municipal Light Department.

As you may be aware, the Town of Wilmington (its town counsel, the town manager, and board of selectmen) and the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, joined by the town counsel of Lynnfield, petitioned the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities (Mass. DPU) for a suspension of the electric rate increase scheduled to be effective 1 June, 1985.

In its preliminary finding the Mass. DPU declined to suspend the new rates, but accepted the petition as a request to investigate the rates of the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD).

The Reading Municipal Light Board (RMLB) has no doubt that the rates of RMLD are fully in accord with statute and Mass. DPU regulations, and will be found so by the Mass. DPU.

Are the new rates the only issue? Over the preceding months, many issues have been discussed in newspapers in the various towns. The issues have included 1) the degree of participation of RMLD in Seabrook; 2) street light rates; 3) in lieu of tax payments to Reading; 4) rate discrimination by geographic region; (4a) explicitly (4b) implicitly through discrimination by customer class; 5) representation on the Reading Municipal Light Board. More recently; 6) Wilmington has tried to invoke a statute (previously ruled against by the Mass. DPU) which requires "negotiation" by Reading with outside towns. Throughout the discussion there runs a thread of (7) Reading's unwillingness to make available information of various sorts.

Most of these issues have little basis in fact. For example (item 7) the RMLD is completely audited each year, and each year files a complete report with

Deadline extended for high school renovation bids

The Permanent Building Committee (PBC) voted three to one at its Monday night meeting to delay the date set for general contractor bids to come in.

The committee also went over a compilation of 65 filed sub-bids submitted by sub-contractors interested in working on several aspects of the high school renovation project.

PBC members agreed to move the general contractor deadline from June 28 to July 3 at the suggestion of architect Wilson Rains of The Design Partnership of Cambridge. Rains felt that, by changing the schedule, they would attract more bidders, some of whom have said they need more time.

Chairman Diane Allan remained unconvinced. It was her contention that the three weeks allotted should have been long enough. If there were a delay, she pointed out, some of the 14 eligible companies, with bids in elsewhere, might accept another job and drop out of the running. She also said she felt that the PBC shouldn't give away any "concessions" to the contractors in case this sets a precedent.

"I guess I take the hard-nosed approach with it - that sounds cruel," she said with a laugh. Construction Manager Stuart Lesser agreed with Rains. He pointed out that "the more competition, at this point," the better it would be, as the bids may come in at lower figures and save them some money.

Allan was also concerned about the "time frame" of the work. With this kind of delay and a long holiday weekend ahead, she said, they could possibly lose a couple of weeks in the construction phase.

After further debate and the vote to change the deadline, it was decided to announce the general contractor at the July 8 PBC meeting.

Wilson told committee members he narrowed down the 65 filed sub-bids, which came in on June 21 to 13 companies to do sub-contracting in such areas as masonry, roofing, aluminum windows, ceramic tile, fire protection, and plumbing.

Under state law, Rains, the general contractor for the project has no choice but to use the chosen sub-contractor.

Rains noted that the bids came in "quite close together" and that the "scattered bids reflect the conditions in the market." He suggested rejecting all bids in elevators because fewer than three bids were received and "the price is not reasonable without further competition." This is the only category which will be rebid.

The only other real problem, he said, is the masonry, as all bids in that area came in higher than his estimation.

"There's nothing one can do," Rains said afterward, except go along with the bid, investigate why it was so high, and change the scope of the work.

Robert Horan

School Committee names Robert Horan superintendent

Assistant Superintendent Robert Horan will assume the mantle of his predecessor Dr. Carol Sager when he officially becomes Superintendent of Schools in Wilmington July 1. Horan was appointed last Wednesday by a four to one vote of the school committee.

Committeeman Phil Fenton cast the only dissenting vote, giving the nod to West Intermediate Principal William Fay who he had placed in nomination with the stipulation Fay receive his certification in time.

While Chairman Tony Accardi told the board "the status of certification had not changed," Shirley Callan said it was her understanding the earliest Fay could be certified is next May. Fenton explained that there was a possibility Fay could be certified by July 1, according to a "legal interpretation" of the law, as it now exists.

Committee member Bridget Zukas said she felt Fay was qualified but "the law is the law," and the school committee had no "certification document" in its hands.

The meeting - possibly the shortest on record - adjourned approximately 10 minutes later as the large audience broke into applause. Afterward reaction was mixed, as well over 100 people gathered in small groups to discuss the committee's action and the merits of the new superintendent.

Fenton said he believed any one of the four finalists could have done the job, but that he was convinced Fay was the one person who could have "instantly improved morale to benefit the kids."

Accardi said he felt committee members had a grasp of the issues and came in and did what had to be done. He seemed pleased with Horan, saying he was the best choice, "under the circumstances."

At least two residents weren't surprised at the outcome.

Joanne Neale, president of the Shawheen School PAC, said "I think it was predictable" while resident Bunny Frey said she wasn't surprised.

"I figured this would happen as Horan was a strong candidate," she said, adding that "the most important thing now is for the board and the Central Office to start off with a spirit of cooperation."

Fund started for Sarchione family

The Wilmington Softball League has organized a drive this week (June 23 to June 28) to raise funds for the widow and six children of Kenny Sarchione, a member of the Softball League who passed away suddenly last week.

The week will be capped off with a benefit dance for Kenny's kids on Friday, June 28 at the Sons of Italy Hall in Wilmington beginning at 8 p.m. Tickets are $10.00 each and can be purchased any night during the softball games at the Aprile Field or daily from Doyle's Hardware, Farmer and the Del, Winston's Coffee Shop, or at the door during the dance.

All donations will be accepted. Checks should be made out to the Wilmington Softball League.

New street proposed

Plans for a new street in North Wilmington are being submitted to the planning board by Joseph Langone.

Langone is developing the land between High Street and Route 62. A road is to go in from High Street, near the Bowman residence, to be named Fox Run.

Several of the planned houselots will have a legal access from Route 62, where the road cuts over Route 93. The Wilmington Planning Board discussed that concept on June 25. The members did not seem to think it was a good idea.

The public hearing will be held July 9.

Office Closed

The Town Crier office will be closed on Friday, July 5. Have a safe and happy holiday weekend!

Vive La France

Kimberly Wight (left) and Dawn Hannula are currently preparing for their voyage to France. The girls are scheduled to leave Saturday as a part of the international exchange program, Nacel. ## Tewksbury students to visit France

by Lauren Terrazzano

Two Tewksbury High School students will travel to France this summer. Kimberly Wight, 17, and Dawn Hannula, 16, are excitedly preparing for their voyage, which will begin Saturday, June 29, at Kennedy International Airport. Both girls were granted this opportunity through Nacel, an international exchange organization geared to helping American students understand other countries and their cultures.

Kim will reside with her host family in Niort, France, approximately five hours from Paris. Enthusiastic about the trip, she explained, "I hope to obtain a better understanding of French culture."

Dawn's host family lives in the rural vineyard town of Sornebille, situated 150 miles east of Paris. "I want to learn and experience the way that others live around the world," she added.

Do the girls feel that their influence upon the French will be significant? They have strong hopes of informing the people about our way of life and culture. The girls will return at the end of July when their one-month stay is completed. Both girls hope to host French students next summer.

There is a strong need for host families in this area. If you are interested, for more information call 944-7577.

An exciting year has drawn to a close for the Wilmington Cub Scouts of Pack 136. Many interesting activities have taken place during the year.

This year the blue and gold banquet was held in the Shriner's Auditorium. The theme was "The Rodeo," with each den presenting its own version of the Wild West.

The boys have worked hard to earn their badges and awards. David Scott Major and Timothy Allard were given the Wolf badge. John Delorey, Brian Aellascio, Matthew Carozza, Russell Allard and Randy Johnson earned their Bear badges. Gold arrows were given to John Delorey, Timothy Allard, Russell Allard, and Silver arrows went to Marc Power, Brian Aellascio, Timothy Allard, John Delorey, Russell Allard, Steven Sarafian and Richard Muse.

Several of the boys will now be wearing Webelos colors. These are Jody Murry, Michael LeVeron, Matthew Carozza, Russell Allard, Larry Ross, Mark O'Brien and Bryan McGinn.

The two Webelos dens have also been diligently working toward their goals. The Webelos badge was earned by Raymond Metecafe, Sean Halley, Steven Sutton, Bobby Anderson, Scott Mahoney, Robert Carbone, and James Burchsted.

The highest award given to a Webelos Scout is the Arrow of Light. This was earned by Steven Lynn, Scott Mahoney and Raymond Metecafe. Many congratulations to these boys for achieving this goal.

Many thanks go to all of the parents and den leaders who made this a wonderful year for the Scouts. We hope next year we will be able to continue our success in carrying on the Scouting tradition.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

I commend you and your newspaper's attempt to save the Walker School from destruction. I came to Wilmington from a city that at one time had no regard for old buildings or the historical value of older buildings.

Only after the city had torn down buildings to make way for shopping malls, apartments, and parking lots did it regret those past decisions.

Excellent examples of victorian architecture, early 1800 buildings and factories, and buildings that were found after destruction to have had historical significance were gone; only old photographs are left.

Now that the city is trying to restore an entire section to its early historical look. Brick sidewalks, gas lamps, and restored facades to buildings have rekindled a spirit of cooperation between merchants and residents of the city.

Even if the building must be destroyed to build something else in its place, every possibility must be investigated to attempt to save old buildings.

These older buildings are what gives Wilmington its charm and its character. Wilmington is not just another sterile glass and steel town that could be Anywhere, USA. Newer communities without old buildings all look the same and the only thing that may differ is the climate between them. The people who live in these newer communities would be just as comfortable in another new community because they are all set up the same, all look the same, and even have the same street names. It is as though the design came from a master computer; ticky tacky houses all in a row.

The spirit of older buildings lives within them and each has a soul of its own. It is as though the building itself looks over the town and you can almost see within the building its statement of how it feels about the goings on about town.

The silent echos of the past within these buildings are constant reminders of how things were and everyone who takes a moment from their busy day to look carefully at old buildings, and listen to what that building tells them, comes away feeling better, rejuvenated from the pressures of life in today's world.

The Walker School is one of these windows to the past, a building past its prime that cries out for restoration, a proud building that should remain as a guardian of community spirit and a link between the past and the future.

I have no answers nor suggestions other than to ask everyone who cares to try to help save the Walker School. To tear down a building just because it is there serves no purpose other than to deprive the future generation of an opportunity to look into the past, to find their roots, and to listen to the silent echos.

David J. Fitzgerald

Dear Larz:

Re: The Hostage Tragedy:
It should be perfectly clear now to all Americans that the United Nations is completely impotent, without guts, and anti-American. It could also be said that they are not even humanitarian.

All the above being true, the United States should get out of the United Nations, and also boot the impotent United Nations out of the United States.

Sincerely,
Bernhard Althin Toombs

Dear Larz:

With the close of the 1985 school year and the graduation of my fifth daughter, I would like to express how fortunate we've been for our children to have such fine, competent, devoted teachers with high quality standards of excellence in education.

It is my privilege to publicly commend Mrs. Mary Theil, director of distributive education (DECA) for the fine job she has done introducing D.E.C.A. to the students at Wilmington High.

Would also like to thank Mrs. Theil and the Class of 85 for the pleasure of chaperoning the trip to Springfield. It was truly my pleasure.

What an inspiring experience it was to witness what Distributive Education Clubs of America, which is a career development program, is doing for our future leaders of tomorrow.

Because Wilmington's class has so many girls in it, it was a revelation for me to see how many competent, confident young gentlemen students from other communities throughout Massachusetts were enrolled in the program.

To see the pride and confidence displayed by both the young ladies and gentlemen students proves its success.

More public information on D.E.C.A. should be available.

I've been told that the program started some time ago about 1930 and it has been popular throughout other parts of the country and some of our towns for years.

I would like to compliment and comment Wilmington's businessmen and organizations for their participation and support of D.E.C.A. - making a dream come true - both for Mrs. Theil and my youngest daughter, Sonja Christine, to participate in the 29th annual competition in San Francisco, Calif.

Thanks again Mrs. Theil and some of Wilmington's businessmen and organization for your part in the foundation of the future for all the students enrolled in D.E.C.A.

Sincerely,
Sonja Carlson

Library card
sign-up

Summer vacation time won't drag on for youngsters who have signed the dragon. The Children's Department has a dragon on the wall, created by assistant children's librarian Susan MacDonald (fourth from left) to encourage youngsters to sign up for library cards. First youngsters sign the dragon, then they sign up for a card.

Wilmington Rec offers Provincetown cruise

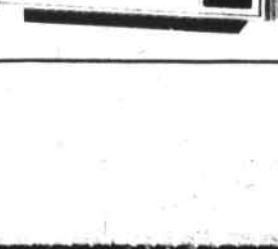

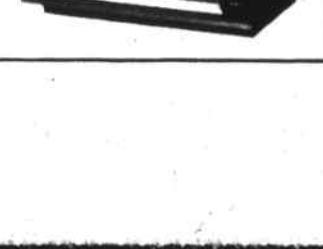

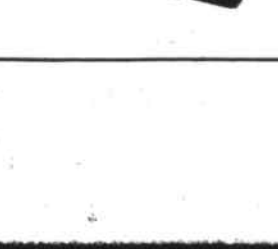

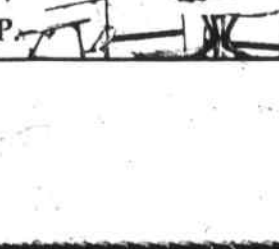

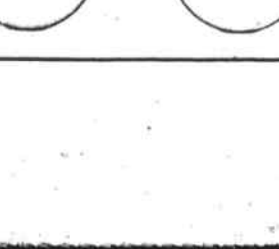

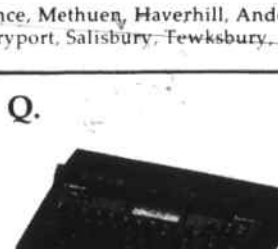

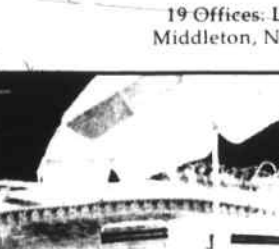

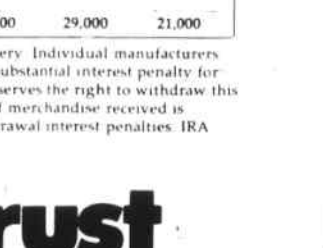

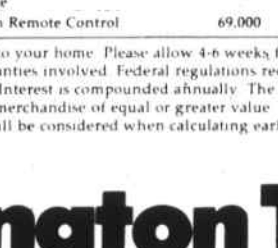

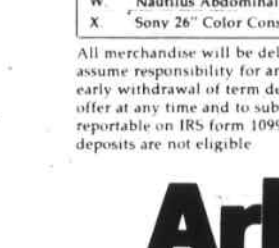

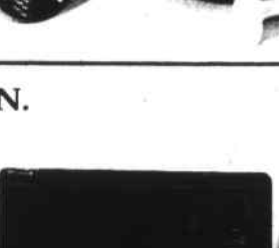

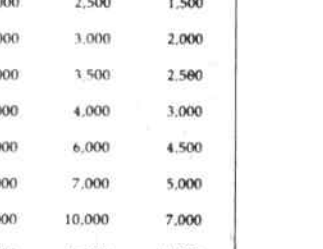

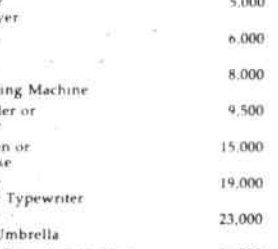

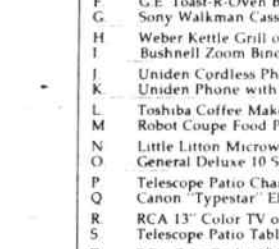

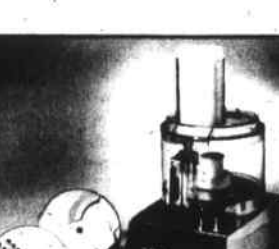

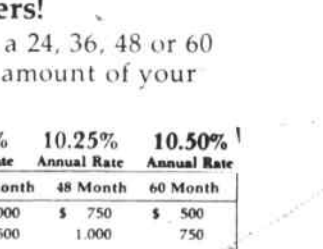

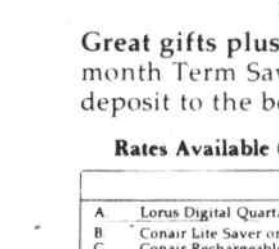

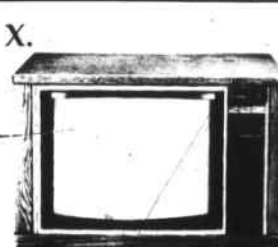

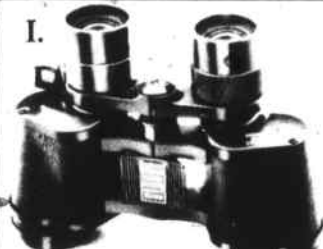

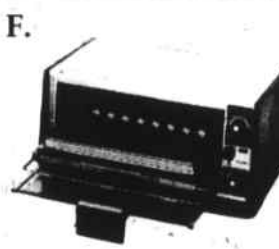

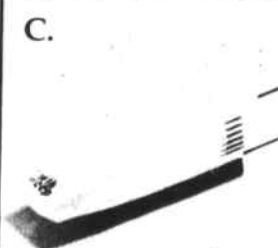

For the most delightful day excursion you'll find, enjoy the fun and sun of a cruise to colorful Provincetown aboard the large, comfortable Provincetown II. Her three spacious decks offer open, enclosed and covered areas to insure comfort in all weather. A sparkling galley and live entertainment add to sun, sights and sea breeze during the cruise.

In Provincetown you can explore the Cape's most interesting shops and most beautiful beaches. Sign up any weekday from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The date is Wednesday, July 10. The group will be leaving the Swain School at 8 a.m. and returning about 7 p.m. Cost is $22.00 per person.

Wilmington woman attends nuclear crisis seminar

Barbara Sullivan, a member of the Wilmington League of Women Voters, recently joined League representatives from all over New England to train in techniques of nuclear negotiation and crisis control at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University.

The League of Women Voters of Massachusetts and the Nuclear Negotiation Project, Harvard Law School, presented a workshop in direct response to the newly raised question about the risk of nuclear war: "Regardless of the number of weapons in the arsenals, are we prepared to prevent an accidental nuclear war?"

"While arms control talks are stalled in Geneva, League members today can speak to support a system of worldwide military crisis control designed to prevent what everyone fears most - a crisis or low-level conflict that, through accident, misunderstanding, miscalculation, or misplaced pride and ambition, escalates to nuclear confrontation," said LWV President Susan Shaer.

Dr. William L. Ury, director of the Nuclear Negotiation Project, was the keynote speaker at the seminar. Dr. Ury is the co-author of the best selling book, "Getting to Yes," and the author of the newly released "Beyond the Hotline."

"Negotiation and crisis control does not take the place of the League's traditional efforts such as fostering open trade, supporting the United Nations, and limiting and reducing armaments to prevent conflict," explained Donna Blackwell, president of the Wilmington League.

These efforts are vital components of global security, but still cannot guarantee that crises and low-level conflicts will not develop," Blackwell said. "Plans for crisis control add another dimension to the League's historic positions."

League participants in the seminar are prepared to speak about these plans in their local communities to describe how crisis control centers could work and how they can prevent crises from happening.

For more information, call 658-4394.

Lynne Murphy graduated from Worcester State

Lynne M. Murphy

Lynne M. Murphy, daughter of Joseph and Catherine Murphy of Gunderson Road, Wilmington, was awarded a bachelor of science degree in urban studies and psychology from Worcester State College at its 109th commencement exercises held on Saturday, May 25, at the Worcester campus.

While attending Worcester State, Lynne was an active member of the Performing Arts Program, the Choral Group, as well as a member of the Lancers Varsity Softball Team during her freshman and sophomore years at the college.

She shared leading roles in the two major stage productions of the college in her junior and senior years; in the 1984 production of "Godspell," and in 1985, "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat."

A 1981 graduate of Our Lady of Nazareth Academy, Wakefield, Lynne was active in sports. She was a member of the 1981 Catholic Conference Championship Basketball Team, as well as the varsity softball squad, which she captained in her senior year at Nazareth.

Every week in our office we have a drawing for the children who come in with clean teeth and a smile on their face. The winner receives a stuffed animal. Our lucky winner this week is

Henrietta Swain taught at Walker School

For the past quarter of a century the public schools of the United States have conducted no prayers in their classes. The decision was made by the Supreme Court of the United States. Many will say it was a good decision. Not everyone agrees.

In Wilmington there were probably public prayers in the schools for about 240 years - from the date of the first school in 1710, to the decision of the Supreme Court about 1960. The first school was at the corner of what is now Butters Row and Main Street, inspired by Deacon Walker who lived at the Stanley Webber house site, and constructed by the nearby residents.

It was always the teachers who led the classes in public prayer.

One of those teachers, a lady who conducted the fifth grade in the Walker School for over 30 years, was Henrietta Swain. That lady stands out in the memory of the person who has been writing of the Walker School. The writer was in her fifth grade in 1920-21.

She was not to be construed as a preacher or an evangelist, because she led the class in public prayer. She was a teacher, a good one, and she was doing her job as a teacher.

Every morning, starting at 9:00, Henrietta Swain would read a chapter from the Old Testament, King James Bible. Then she would lead the class in a recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

Many of her readings were from the Book of Psalms. The class committed to memory the 23rd and the 101st Psalms, as well as others.

And, in the recitation of the Lord's Prayer the writer, a nine year old lad, first learned that there were differences in the practice of religion.

The Roman Catholic version of that prayer was shorter. The consequence was that the Catholic children would finish first.

There was one Jewish boy in the class, Leo Gordon. He would sit upright, and not participate in that prayer.

Why bring up that, at this time?

It so happens that the King James Bible, aside from its religious value, is one of the three best sources of correct English Grammar in the history of that language. And that source has now been effectively banned from the public schools.

James the First, he who was called by some "The wisest fool in Christendom" assembled the best English scholars when he decided on a new translation of the Hebrew and Greek versions of the Bible. Those scholars produced a work that will probably live forever.

There are also two other sources, for the English scholar - Chaucer, and Shakespeare.

Chaucer is not in the curriculum of the public schools. Shakespeare, to some degree is taught in the high schools. The King James version of the Bible

Gowing Swain home

The Gowing-Swain home stood Lowell Street in Wilmington, opposite what is now Lucci's Market. This picture, taken about 1900 by Ed Nelson Eames, shows the house as it appeared from the corner of Woburn Street. In the distance may be seen a streetcar on its way to Reading.

Mary Swain

Miss Mary Swain was 89 years old when this picture was taken in 1958. Her sisters Henrietta and Caroline were teachers in the Wilmington Public Schools for many years, and the Swain School was named for them.

graduation from high school, to Salem Normal School. It is probable that she used the Salem & Lowell Railroad for her travels, her father taking her by buggy to the Brown's Crossing railroad station in North Wilmington. Carolyn did not attend Normal School. Wilmington town records say she acquired her further education "privately."

Henrietta's teaching career began in the East school, in the fall of 1893. Her salary was $28 a month. The average daily attendance of her class was 23 pupils. There were five grades in that class, all taught by the same teacher.

At that time, and for a few years, she was known as Etta. Two years later she was getting $8 a week, plus 50 cents a week for janitor work.

A few years later she was transferred to the Walker School. There she taught fifth grade pupils, year after year.

And anyone who ever attended her classes, in the fifth grade of the Walker school, can probably recite the 23rd Psalm from memory.

*I might not be a Thoreau
But there's one thing I do know.
The Walker School we should save.
Destroying it — a mistake so grave.*

*I might not be as clever as Sonja,
But I do warn ya,
If the Walker is torn down,
A piece of my heart will fall to the ground'.
— Harrison Keeler*

Ode to the Walker School

*Light a match and toll the bell, and send the ugly witch to hell.
Memories live in the hearts so pure, but to preserve the school is pure manure,
Time moves on, thank God it does,
but deliver me from the "bull" that was.
History is the great adventure,
that evades the minds of those, who dwell,
and forget the days of locked in hell.*

An entitled opinion,
with apologies for any offenses.
(I personally loved school).

— George L. Webster

Summer programs at Patten Public Library

A summer of activities and programs for young people has been planned at Tewksbury's Patten Public Library. Assistant Director, Mrs. Moore, has coordinated the programs which include: story hours for pre-school children, weekly films, a summer reading club, and craft programs.

Beginning July 10, story hours will be held every Wednesday morning for six weeks at 10:15 a.m. Pre-registration will be held Friday, June 28, at 10 a.m.

On Thursday afternoons at 2:30, films will be shown for children six and older. These movies, lasting about an hour, will be held for eight weeks beginning July 11. The first feature will be "The Ragtag Champs" which runs for 50 minutes.

The summer reading program, "The Seafarer Reading Club," is open to all school age children (through grade six) who can read and to other children whose parents are willing to read to them. Registration for the reading club begins Monday, July 1. More details about the club will be available at the library.

In addition, craft programs will be held on Tuesday afternoons at 2:30 beginning July 16. A list of craft programs is available at the library.

For further information on any of these activities, contact Mrs. Moore at the library, 851-6071.

Marine Corps League

A new chapter of the Marine Corps League held its charter night recently at the American Legion Hall in Wilmington. John Hayward of Nichols Street, Wilmington is the commandant of the new group, the Wilmington-Tewksbury Detachment. Administering the oath was Donald Colebrook, State Department Commandant.

Reading Light

Mass. DPU.

The negotiation issue (item 6) is an interesting one, in that, when Reading had different rates outside Reading than it did inside, it made some sense to mandate negotiations, on the rate levels. Wilmington has charged Reading with "failure to negotiate," but has made no statement of what issues might be negotiated, or what Wilmington's position on these might be. Since the electric rates are the same throughout the RMLD service area (item 4) RMLB does not know what otherwise might be left to negotiate. (It is difficult to negotiate if you don't know what the issues are. While Wilmington is concerned that industrial rates may be too high, they have also said that no other rates should be raised.)

Item 5, aside from illegal, is administratively absurd. If Wilmington is entitled to representation on RMLB, why is Reading entitled to representation on the Boston Edison board of directors? Why aren't we all on the boards of directors of all the companies we do business with? The outside towns bear none of the responsibility for the RMLD. Reading does.

The matter of rates was covered by Mr. Rhinerson at the public hearing 12 June. The RMLB thus far has no reason to believe that the rates are anything but fair and equitable (items 4, 4a, 4b).

In addition to payments to the Town of Reading, the RMLB from time to time voluntarily authorizes payments to outside towns. There is some reason to think that the towns would like more money. There is also reason to think the towns are unwilling to publicly support rate increases to make these payments. The RMLB has no intention of incurring debt to make payments to the outside towns.

Street light rates are set for the outside towns on the same basis as the other rates - on a cost of service basis. Street light rates for Reading are set by MGL, Ch 164.

The RMLB reported to town meeting on Seabrook at the last session of Town Meeting. Briefly, Reading's seven megawatts of Seabrook No. 1 will have minimal effect on a system of 120 megawatts of capability. The problem is capacity for the future.

Finally, the RMLB would like to assure the citizens of Reading and the system-wide rate payers that we have placed the RMLD in the proper legal and financial posture.

A look at the new superintendent

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington's new school superintendent, Robert Horan, comes across as a man of firm beliefs, personal strengths, experience, and the necessary academic qualifications to handle the tough job ahead.

The assistant superintendent of the Wilmington system for three and a half years, Horan has handled a number of tasks, most recently to trim the school budget and working out a plan to house students during the high school renovation.

He and his wife Pamela presently live in Billerica, though Horan was born in Salem, Mass. He is a PhD. candidate at the University of Connecticut, having received his B.S. from Northeastern and his M.A. from the University of Connecticut. He has held positions as teacher, assistant principal, and principal of two high schools prior to serving in Wilmington and has accumulated 11 years administrative experience.

Horan exudes confidence and has already come up with a list of priorities and issues he plans to address immediately.

Topping the list is the renovation project. Horan said, in an interview last Friday, he has already been in touch with the Permanent Building Committee and he's made plans to move materials and equipment to the Swain School in August.

"Recognizing the professional role of teachers" and helping them perform to the best of their abilities for their students' sake is also a high priority. He believes this is a difficult time to be a teacher and that often there are personal pressures put on teachers which may "get in the way" of their job.

At the next two school committee meetings, Horan will address several issues. He will recommend calling back some laid off teachers, he will bring up recommendations relative to the reorganization of the Central Office to make it "more efficient and accountable," and he will address budgetary concerns.

He believes a superintendent should be "highly visible" on a day to day basis. To this end, he anticipates spending a good portion of his time out of his office attending faculty meetings, visiting classes, supporting building management personnel, attending PAC meetings, and generally being available.

He believes a superintendent should listen to the needs of the community too. If parents and residents have a question or problem, Horan encourages them to contact either himself or school personnel.

"The more information we have, the better job we're going to be able to do," he explains.

He believes a superintendent should be more involved in the budget process. Calling the handling of a large budget "big business," he hopes to be able to carefully "monitor spending patterns" in the future.

As far as morale is concerned, he stressed at the recent candidates' night that it's up to the leadership at the top to keep up morale. One way to do this, he explained, is to involve others and create a give and take atmosphere. The superintendent must also be willing to make hard decisions, take action, and produce results.

Horan feels strongly that students are "what it's all about." Students and their needs, he said, will always come first with him. And while youngsters need structure and need to be held responsible for their actions, one must be careful because discipline can be demoralizing and reduce the creativity of certain children.

Lastly, Horan looks forward to a "direct, honest relationship" with the school committee and other town boards and officials.

D. F. Munroe seeks to expand

The D.F. Munroe Company of North Wilmington seeks to expand its place of business, located off Waltham Road. The company is in the paper business, and has been at that site for about 25 years.

An appeal is being scheduled, before the Wilmington Board of Appeals. The company seeks to have an additional area of 22,000 square feet. It seems this can mean a redesign of the street known as First Street.

The problem was discussed June 25 before the Wilmington Planning Board. Approximately eight neighbors were present to oppose.

The problem will again be discussed before the planning board on July 9, so that the planning board may consider what input they may want to present to the Wilmington Board of Appeals.

Still time to enter Wilmington art exhibit

The Annual Art Exhibit sponsored by the Wilmington Council for the Arts will be held July 6 on the town common.

In order to be listed in the program, applications must be returned by Friday, June 28.

There is still time to reserve space for craft tables. Some of the articles which will be for sale are wall plaques, wooden articles, teddy bears, stained glass and miscellaneous items.

Judging of the art work will be done by Elaine Bradley, Barbara Groom, and Carolyn Latanision.

Elaine Bradley holds membership in the Lexington, Concord, Reading and Billerica Art Associations. She has had many awards for her watercolors including ones from Chelmsford, Reading, Wilmington, Lexington, Lowell and Concord. American Mutual Insurance Company selected her work for its calendar. Elaine is continuing her studies with George Shedd and Betty Lou Schlemm.

Barbara Groom's oil paintings of still lifes and landscapes have received many awards and are represented in private collections throughout the country. She has studied with Lorraine DeGroot Stevens, Helen Van Wyk and Robert Benham. Barbara holds membership in the Reading Art Association and Tewksbury Art Guild of which she is a co-founder. She is also on the Board of the Tewksbury Art Council.

Watercolor, casein, gouache and acrylic are the preferred media of Carolyn Latanision whose love of color is a powerful motivator in her paintings of semi-abstract landscapes, still lifes, figures of paintings that reflect the atmosphere and flavor of city life. Carolyn has studied in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Massachusetts and now teaches watercolor classes. Her work has been widely shown and she has had several one woman exhibitions. Her awards are numerous and she is represented in private and corporate collections throughout the world.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Air Quality Regulations

as Regards Odors

Any resident of Wilmington who detects a source or sources of odor which they consider a nuisance, should report this occurrence at once to the police department at 658-3331. They will dispatch personnel from their department and when possible, the Director of Public Health to investigate. Upon identification of the odor source, the Board of Health will order the responsible party to cease these emissions immediately, issue a citation to the responsible party, and may initiate court action.

The responsible party will then be required to submit a plan to assure that there be no further occurrences. Any subsequent violation will mandate the Board of Health asking the court to implement the provisions of Mass. General Laws Chapter XIII section 1 which read: No person leasing, or controlling the operation of any air contamination source shall willfully or through failure to provide necessary precautions permit any emission from said air contamination source or sources of such quantities of air contaminants which will cause by themselves or in conjunction with other air contaminants, a condition of air pollution.

Any person or corporation violating this order shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars for the first offense and not less than two hundred nor more than five hundred dollars for each succeeding offense.

In addition we regard violation of this law on any successive day or part thereof as a separate offense.

HERITAGE COMMONS

General Accounting Services

We offer a wide range of accounting services which may be of interest to you personally, or to your business. For the individual, we offer tax planning advice that could save you tax dollars for 1985. Don't delay seeking advice on such everyday occurrences which may seem unimportant tax wise to you such as selling a house, stocks, or bonds, taking a pension distribution or perhaps withdrawing your IRA without first knowing the tax consequences. Tax planning could help minimize or perhaps even eliminate tax dollars before it's too late. Act before January 1, 1986.

For those of you in business looking for an accountant whether your business is large or small our services include all aspects of general accounting. We offer bookkeeping and payroll tax services, audit service, review services or even a compilation of accounting records. We also issue financial statements, management letters (which are recommendations to improve troubled areas), and prepare all federal, state and corporate taxes.

Please feel free to drop by our new office in Heritage Commons if you haven't seen the complex or even if you have and let us assist you and perhaps help you understand tax issues that may be important to you or your business along with accounting needs for both existing and just newly formed businesses.

Our current office hours are Monday through Friday, noon to 5 p.m. or at your convenience when you book an appointment.

Neighbors oppose planned retail store at appeals hearing

A proposal to construct four new stores on land just to the west of the Tewksbury Market did not strike an enthusiastic response from neighbors at a Tewksbury Board of Appeals hearing on June 24.

The appeal was for Robert P. Sullivan and in fact was for a request for a special permit. Attorney Kevin Sullivan presented the case. Sixteen neighbors were present to present their viewpoints, which differed from those of the attorney.

possibly a bakery or a laundromat. There would be no grocery store.

The opposition was plentiful. One of the first to speak was John Olson of 65 Patten Road. He had many questions. What, he asked, if they put a penny arcade there? Sullivan said he would have a stipulation barring such an event.

Olson said the big problem in the neighborhood was the safety of the children. He had watched cars come "ripping around the corner." Are there any traffic

The address is 1 Patten Road. There is a 12 acre lot of land which Kevin Sullivan's father had zoned for limited business in the early 1950's. A foundation for the stores was laid in 1954. The problem is that the foundation, instead of being 10 feet from the lot line, is only seven. Because of that fact there had to be a hearing for a special permit.

Sullivan told the board that the four stores would be similar to Cranberry Place, formally John's Fruitland, on Main Street. There would be, he said,

How far would the stores be back from the street? Sullivan said it would be 65 feet. There would be no access except from the front.

Frank Harrington, 30 years a resident, told the board that "you can't even see the cars coming." He would like the police to report the accidents.

"It's the wrong place to build things. Get them out on Main Street," he said.

Paul Maxwell told the board it was the wrong place to have a business zone. Harold Jenkins spoke up to say that Sullivan had the right to ask the board of appeals, but then he passed some remarks about the condition of the foundations. Parents have to sweep away broken glass, he said. He would like to see the foundation done away with.

Things are getting out of hand because of traffic and speeding, Jenkins said. The police should be in the area continuously.

It is expected that the appeals board will make a decision on the case in the next few weeks.

Local cable to feature 'The Job Shop'

Employers and their job openings are the subject of a new series to appear on local cable television. "The Job Shop," a weekly half hour program, will be cablecast throughout the area on Tuesdays at 6 p.m. beginning June 25. In its start up phase, coverage spans eight local communities and includes 53,000 homes.

"The Job Shop" is the brainchild of a local video production company, Reflex Teleproductions of Dracut. The company's background has been in corporate television as a producer of custom programming for business and charitable organizations. With "The Job Shop," the company moves into the realm of programming aimed at the general public.

The mission of "The Job Shop" is to bring employers and potential employees together by means of televised advertising. The show sports a part news show, part talk show format. Companies and their openings are profiled by means of reports from the show's anchorperson, in-studio interviews with company representatives, and on-location reports on hiring companies.

The producers of "The Job Shop" feel the show represents an important service both to hiring companies and to the public. "What we've done is to bring an entirely new medium to the recruitment field, and with it possibilities that simply never existed before," explains William McDonald, company founder and native of Chelmsford. "The fact that it's television opens new doors for the employer. Television captures attention and creates retention. A single employer is the sole focus of attention at any given time. TV allows the employer to tell his whole story in a way that wasn't possible until now. He can show the potential employee why his is a desirable company to work for and convey his message completely and dramatically. The visual aspect allows the employee to actually see what is being talked about, creating credibility. In all, the show will be hitting the people the employer wants, with an impactful message, and with surprising economy." With regard to the public, McDonald points out that we are an increasingly TV-oriented society and that people are naturally inclined to viewing. As an added attraction, each week's show will contain an educational segment on job-hunting skills such as resume writing.

"The Job Shop" can be viewed in Lowell, Wilmington, Billerica, Burlington, Woburn and Stoneham on cable channel 6, and in Tewksbury and Chelmsford on cable channel 57. For more information, call Reflex Teleproductions at 454-4597.

Tewksbury Hospital patient missing since March found dead

A badly decomposed body discovered in a wooded section off Main St., Tewksbury last week has been identified as that of Joseph Osterhout, a 41-year-old former Tewksbury State Hospital patient who had been missing from the hospital since March 5.

A 14-year-old Tewksbury boy discovered the body under a pile of leaves in a wooded section behind the Aubert's Liquor Store in the Marshall's Shopping Center at 5:25 p.m. on June 18, according to Tewksbury Police Inspector Kevin Sheehan. The boy found the body while taking a walk through the woods and reported it to police.

Upon arriving at the scene, Sheehan said police and the medical examiner found the fully clothed skeletal remains of a body. Sheehan said police searched the clothing and found a wallet carrying Osterhout's identification.

The identification was positively made after the remains were taken to Boston City Hospital where X-rays were taken and then compared to Osterhout's X-rays on file at Tewksbury Hospital, said Sheehan.

Osterhout, former of Revere, was admitted to the Nichols building at Tewksbury Hospital on November 11, 1984 and was reported missing March 5. Osterhout had a history of medical problems, but the actual cause of death has not been determined.

Although police are continuing their investigation, Sheehan said police found no evidence of foul play. He said police found "nothing suspicious" either in the area or on the remains.

"There wasn't any (foul play) we could determine," he said. There were no wound marks or fractures found on the skeleton, Sheehan said. Police also could not find any holes or cuts in the man's clothing that would indicate gun shot or knife wounds, Sheehan added.

obituaries

Robert Stedman

Robert J. Stedman, formerly of Burlington, of Wolfeboro, N.H. died unexpectedly at Lahey Clinic Medical Center, Burlington Thursday, June 20.

Mr. Stedman, 61 years of age, was born in Cambridge, the son of the late Mabel (Kelly) and the late Robert J. Stedman. He lived in Cambridge during his younger years, in Burlington for 20 years and moved to Wolfeboro eight years ago.

He served in the U.S. Army during World War II.

Prior to retirement, Mr. Stedman was employed as a truck driver for Allied Concrete Co., Everett and was a member of Local No. 379 Boston. Mr. Stedman is survived by his wife, Alice S. (Conrad), his daughter, Mrs. Claire C. Donahue of Tewksbury; his son, Stanley A. Stedman of Wilmington; his sister, Mrs. Mary White of Stoneham; his grandchildren, Eddie, Bobby and Mike Donahue of Tewksbury; Julianne, David and Tammy Stedman of Wilmington.

The funeral was held from the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home, 374 Main St., Wilmington Saturday morning at 9:15 followed by a funeral Mass at St. Dorothy's Church at 10. Interment took place in Chestnut Hill cemetery, Burlington.

Northeast Baseball League

Tewksbury splits pair

Tewksbury's Northeast Baseball League entry split two games last week, beating Methuen, 7-4 and losing a tough one to Wakefield, 2-1.

In the loss to Wakefield, Mike McLaughlin pitched five innings for four hit ball, allowing two unearned runs in a bitterly fought contest. Jeff Smith finished up the last inning for Tewksbury, setting Wakefield down in order.

The winning pitcher for Wakefield was Ed Notnayan, who fashioned a one hitter. The lone hit for Tewksbury was Pat Brooks RBI single in the third to drive in Rick LeDuc with the tying run at the time. Defensive standouts in the game were catcher Chris Mader and shortstop Charlie Gath, both of Tewksbury.

Tewksbury then bounced back with a 7-4 win over Methuen at their home field. Mike McLaughlin and Greg Parke shared the pitching duties. McLaughlin went three and a third innings, giving up two runs and four hits. Parke finished up with two runs and five hits, striking out four and pitching himself out of two bases loaded situations.

Defensive stars for Tewksbury were 14-year-old catcher Chris Mader, who threw out three runners trying to steal, and 14-year-old shortstop John Miller, who made several fine defensive plays, including throwing out a runner at the plate with the bases loaded in the third inning.

In the third, Mike McLaughlin tripled, scoring John Miller and Al Piccolo who had walked. Mike then stole home for the third run of the game.

Offensive leaders for Tewksbury were Sean Blades with two towering doubles and a run scored; Mike McLaughlin with a two RBI triple and two runs scored; Chris Mader who singled and scored on Greg Parke's rope to leftfield; and Tom Gallella with a run producing single.

Tewksbury's upcoming games are at Wakefield Thursday, June 27 and Stoneham July 3.

Tewksbury Youth Soccer

Tewksbury impressive in State Finals

Over 100 parents and friends recently watched the Tewksbury Boys Under 14 Select Soccer Team represent the town in a proud manner. They played their hearts out even when playing without their team leader Keith Krugh, who sustained a severely sprained ankle in the game played the day before. Tewksbury lost its final game, 2-0 to an excellent Dover-Sherborn team after earlier wins against Saugus 2-1 on Friday and Harvard 3-2 on Saturday.

In the first game Friday, Tewksbury took an early lead on goals by Tom Walsh and Chris Sullivan. The goal by Sullivan was set up by excellent wing play by Derek Leahy, who had been the hero of the playoff game the week before, scoring the winning goal in a victory over Billerica that sent Tewksbury to the state tournament.

With the score 2-0 at the half, Tewksbury held on to win with Saugus scoring once in the second half. Tewksbury dominated play for the most part, however Saugus had some excellent opportunities to score late in the game.

In the second game against Harvard, Tewksbury probably played its best game of the year. Some feel that the Harvard team was better than the Dover-Sherborn team that eventually beat Tewksbury, but there was no question in anybody's mind that Tewksbury was at its best both physically and mentally for the Saturday game.

Tewksbury took an early lead on a goal by Jim Waldron just four minutes into the game. Then fullback Keith Krugh scored on one of the most impressive shots of the tournament off a direct free kick about 20 to 30 yards from the goal.

With a 2-0 lead, Jim Pollard then scored the final Tewksbury goal to give Tewksbury a 3-0 advantage.

Harvard had one explosive forward and Tewksbury decided to isolate two of their faster and more talented players on him throughout the second half.

They were Peter Atherton and Tsuyoshi Fukuda and both did a masterful job. He did not score with the two players alternately marking him and while Harvard scored two goals, Tewksbury won 3-2. Tewksbury 1, North Reading 0; Tewksbury 6, Bedford 0.

Playoffs

Tewksbury 2, Billerica 1;
State championships
Tewksbury 2, Saugus 1;
Tewksbury 3, Harvard 2;
Tewksbury 0, Dover-Sherborn, 2.

In the final game, Dover-Sherborn scored relatively early in the first half on a rebound shot and Tewksbury with numerous opportunities could not manage a goal.

A number of excellent saves were made by goalie Chris Stys, who was by far the best in the tournament. Then with about two minutes to go in the game one referee called an obstruction in front of the goal, which they executed beautifully and the game was theirs, 2-0.

Some of the highlights for Tewksbury over the 14 week season included seven shutouts due to the skillful and intelligent defense of fullbacks Keith Krugh, Danny Femino and Sean Wilson and excellent play from goalie Chris Stys.

The players who cover the most field and are responsible for controlling field positions are the fine fullbacks Chris Horgan, Kyrie Stevens, Lenny Bolton, Robbie Lombardi and Jamie Holden.

On the forward lines, of which there were two equally balanced units, one was made up of Derek Leahy, Brian DeLuca, Peter Atherton and Chris Sullivan, while the other featured Jim Waldron, Tom Walsh, Jimmy Pollard and Tsuyoshi Fukuda. These lines were responsible for a total of 46 goals in the 14 games which is an average of 3.3 per game, while the defense gave up 12 goals for a fantastic goals against average of 0.86.

Tewksbury was first in the Middlesex Youth Soccer League

Rhinerson explains Reading Light rates

At a June 12 rate hearing, the following statement was made by Norbert Rhinerson, general manager of Reading Light Company.

"It was recognized late in 1984 that the department's current rate schedules effective January 1, 1983, would not produce sufficient revenue to earn the eight percent rate of return allowed by Section 58, Chapter 164 of the Massachusetts General Laws. In fact, if the rates were not increased the department would operate at a loss in Calendar 1985.

It was estimated that the purchased power and related costs exclusive of fuel would be $18,373,155 in 1985 and that the department's own expenses which include a five percent depreciation rate and payment on our debt would be $5,019,519. The eight percent allowable earning on the expected plant value of $26 million at 12-31-85 would be $2,080,000.

Based on the 1-1-83 rate schedules and a projected increase of five percent in sales, the basic revenue from customers exclusive of fuel would be $22,840,460.

Basic revenue needs in order to earn the allowable eight percent rate of return would have to be $18,373,155 plus $5,019,519 plus $2,080,000 totaling $25,472,674. Comparing this to the projected revenue under the 1-1-83 rate schedules of $22,840,460 indicated a shortfall of $2,632,214.

Following increased KWH sales of 6.3 percent in 1983 and 6.5 percent in 1984 we originally projected a seven percent increase in sales in 1985. Since that time, we have reduced that projection to five percent and the actual sales growth in 1985 through April 30th is only 2.2 percent. If the growth in 1985 would turn out to be only three percent there would be a further decrease in basic revenues of $433,500.

The additional basic revenue need of $2,632,214 was established. A determination was then needed to see how the rates for the individual rate classes would have to be revised in order to meet that revenue requirement.

The department's rate schedules have always been uniform summer and winter with no special recognition of peak or off peak periods except for electric water heating. During the last 12 years we have experienced higher demands in the summer than in the winter. In 1984, the summer peak was 100,640 KW and the winter peak was 82,080 KW, an 18.45 percent difference. We attribute this primarily to our customers air conditioning requirements. Over those 12 years the annual peak loads have occurred three times in each of the months of June, July, August and September.

Federal and state regulatory authorities are requesting or mandating electric utilities to design their rates so as to encourage energy conservation and load management.

The 6-1-85 rate schedules include features that will accomplish these objectives without the purchase of expensive and complex metering systems.

While we have been making good progress with a voluntary load reduction program over the last six years within the Large General Service (C) customer class, we have now begun to move the demand charge upward to the marginal cost of purchasing the next unit of capacity. This is the same methodology as was incorporated in the MDPU rate order in a 1984 retail rate case for Boston Edison. These higher demand charges will only be applicable during the summer peak load periods. There are no other changes in the C Rate schedule except to further enhance the benefits of reducing load at the time of system peak.

In the Residential (A) and Small General Service (B) schedules we have incorporated both a customer service charge of $2.22 per month and a higher energy rate above 250 KWH per

Stapczynski speaks out

At a rate-setting hearing held by the Reading Municipal Light Commissioners on June 12, Wilmington Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski made the following statement.

"The Town of Wilmington finds it impossible to have any technical comments for this hearing because the Reading Municipal Light Board has not supplied the Town of Wilmington with facts and figures needed to analyze the new rates which went into effect June 1, 1985. These facts and figures were promised to the Town of Wilmington at a meeting in Wilmington at the Wilmington town hall on May 20th of this year. These facts and figures were requested by telephone, twice by Town Counsel of Reading Municipal Light Board's attorney and once by the Town Manager of the General Manager of the Reading Municipal Light Department. Because the Town of Wilmington does not have the necessary technical information to make the kind of input that we feel is required, all we can say is 'thanks, but, no thanks' to the three Reading Municipal Light Commissioners for their generous offer to provide a hearing. It seems a little peculiar that this hearing is held only after three Department of Public Utilities petitions have been filed: two by the Wilmington Board of Selectmen and one by Wilmington's Chamber of Commerce. It appears the three Reading Municipal Light Commissioners are only responsive when the customers file at the DPU.

It is a fact that the three Commissioners have refused to meet with the Town of Wilmington's Board of Selectmen on several occasions. On January 9th I sent a letter to Chairman Doughty requesting that the Board attend a Wilmington Selectmen's meeting on January 14th; they couldn't attend. On February 28th I sent a letter to Chairman Doughty, again requesting a meeting with the selectmen of Wilmington, North Reading, Lynnfield. I gave him four dates to choose from. Once again, no joint meeting was held.

It was only after the Town of Wilmington sent a police officer to 25 Haven Street with a demand to meet and negotiate that Commissioner Ames, a lawyer, and their General Manager met with the Town of Wilmington on May 20th of this year. In addition, it should be known that on April 15 the Reading Municipal Light Board presented the Town of Wilmington with an 'in lieu of tax payment' in the amount of approximately $70,000. This check was denied the town in December. It's curious that it was only after a threat of a DPU petition that the check was received by the Town of Wilmington.

The Town of Wilmington wants to be a good neighbor with the Town of Reading and the Reading Municipal Light Department. The Town of Wilmington accounts for approximately 65 to 75 percent of the gross revenues of the Reading Municipal Light Department. If the Town of Wilmington leaves the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD), it would cause serious financial impact on the Town of Reading by loss of Wilmington's revenue. In particular, an overwhelming burden would be placed on RMLD's Seabrook obligation and on the remaining rate payes with a system diminished to only 25 to 35 percent of its present gross revenue. The Town of Wilmington does not want to be responsible for 'pulling the plug' on the Reading Municipal Light Board. However, it may be the only alternative left to the town.

The Town of Wilmington refuses to be manipulated by the arbitrary and capricious acts of the three Reading Municipal Light Commissioners. They have refused to negotiate the rates with the Town of Wilmington as required by their 1908 enabling legislation. They have refused to supply the Town of Wilmington's officials with financial facts and figures that would have made this hearing meaningful. And, they have refused to act responsibly to the consumers they serve. In fact, they have accepted the Marie Antoinette attitude of 'let them eat cake.'

First track meet Thursday night

The first of the season's summer track meets will take place Thursday evening, June 27 at the Tewksbury High School track. At 6 p.m. there will be a warmup session in the field and the running events will begin at 6:15.

On the track first will be the boys and girls ages one to five running a 50 yard dash. The boys race will be followed by the girls race in all categories. The winner of each race will receive a blue ribbon. For the 50 yard dash only there will be a consolation race later in the meet for all those who did not win in the first race. The winner of the consolation race will also receive a blue ribbon.

After the 50 yard dash there will be a 100 yard dash for boys ages 6-8, 9-11, 12-14, and over 14. Then the girls in the same age groups will run.

Following the 100 there will be a 440 yard run, a 220 yard run and a mile run. The same age categories will apply for each race. Over the past few summers, the mile run has proven to be an exciting race in all age groups, both for the boys and the girls.

The last event of the meet will be the 440 relay. Teams of four (two boys and two girls) will compete in two age categories, 12 and over and 11 and under. All four members of a winning team will receive blue ribbons.

There is no entry fee or pre-registration for the meet.

Tewksbury Minor League Baseball

Rangers still rolling

Rangers vs Pirates

The Rangers won their 13th game of the season with a come-from-behind 8-7 win over the Pirates. Mark Heichman pitched an outstanding game for the Pirates.

Jesse Sawyer and Eric Morris each pitched three innings for the Rangers. Eric Morris earned the win by allowing only one run in the last three innings.

The hitting star of the game was Jesse Sawyer. Jesse had a homerun in the bottom of the sixth inning to score the winning run for the Rangers.

Lyle Morgan, Jason Larocque, Eric Morris and Kenny Lombardi each had a single to lead the Rangers' offense. Tom Keating had one walk.

The defensive star of the game was Kenny Lombardi. Kenny made a spectacular catch of a ball in rightfield to prevent two Pirate base runners from scoring.

Rangers vs Mets

The Rangers won their 12th game of the season without a loss. Jesse Sawyer, Matt Callahan and Eric Morris combined their pitching efforts for the win.

The hitting stars of the game were Jesse Sawyer and Jason Larocque. Jesse had a homerun, triple, and a single. Jason had three singles. Eric Morris had two hits and a walk. Lyle Morgan scored four runs with two hits and two walks. Brian Merrow had one hit to complete the Ranger attack.

Matt Callahan had two walks. Benji Lombardi, Adam Bishop, Kenny Lombardi and Scott Johnson each had a walk. The defensive star of the game was Eric Morris, who caught a towering fly ball to end the game.

that featured excellent soccer from teams representing Winchester, Bedford, Concord, North Reading and Billerica.

Scores of each game

Tewksbury 1, Winchester 4; Tewksbury 11, Billerica United 0; Tewksbury 1, Concord 1; Tewksbury 3, North Reading 1; Tewksbury 3, Bedford 0; Tewksbury 2, Winchester 0; Tewksbury 8, Billerica United 0; Tewksbury 3, Concord 0.

While all of the players are enrolled at the Tewksbury Junior High School, most are in the eighth grade with the exception of three, who were only in the seventh grade. They were Robbie Lombardi, Sean Wilson and Jamie Holden. All three in addition to the rest of the players, the coaching staff of Jim Culbertson and Matt Taylor, and man supportive parents, relatives and friends had a three day experience at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst they will never forget. Anybody who spent time with this team from the opening practices and games in April to the tournament this weekend would agree that rarely do you find a team of 17 boys who get along so well together, have an incredible respect for one another and who work so hard to do well.

Within the next two weeks, there will be a team get together, at which time trophies will be awarded, which were given from the Middlesex Soccer League. At that time the players, coaches, family and friends will have one last opportunity to review the teams accomplishments. There were many!

month in the A Rate and above 500 KWH per month in the B Rate. The higher energy rates are applicable only during the four summer months. The customer service charge is applicable every month.

The Street Lighting (D) Rate was not changed as street lighting is an off peak load in June, July, August and September.

The Small and Large General Service share of our total sales have increased 77.2 percent over the last ten years, while residential sales have increased by only 24.7 percent.

The General Service customer (B and C) are now responsible for a greater share of the system peak than their share of the total KWH sales would indicate.

Peak system loads formerly would occur at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. when loads other than air conditioning predominated. Now the system's annual peak load occurs in the afternoon on very hot days between 2 and 5 p.m. and is created by the air conditioning requirements in commercial and industrial buildings. The system peak does not coincide with the residential peak which occurs later at about 7 p.m.

In 1984 the proportion of revenue in each customer class was 29.5 percent Residential; 1.51 percent Small General Service; and 68.94 percent Large General Service. The 6-1-85 rate schedules will raise additional revenues in each class by the following proportions on an annual basis: 28.78 percent Residential, 1.37 percent Small General Service, and 69.85 percent Large General Service."

Capt. Timothy Walker led the militia

Capt. Timothy Walker was the leader of the Wilmington Militia on Concord Day, and the grandfather of the man for whom the Walker School was named.

Capt. Walker lived in what people today called the Alden Eames house on Shawsheen Avenue. His story has been published in this newspaper during the current month.

Capt. Walker was a descendant of Capt. Richard Walker who emigrated to Lynn from England about 1630. His son, Deacon Samuel Walker, moved to Woburn and his grandson, the second Deacon Samuel Walker, built a home in the "Maple Meadow Plain." That home was on the site of the home of Stanley Webber on Main Street and it is possible that Mr. Webber's home is the same building.

Capt. Timothy Walker was a great grandson of the second Deacon Samuel. Samuel Walker, son of the second Deacon, became a captain in the militia. His son Timothy built a home on what is now Shawsheen Avenue. That home burned down, according to tradition, and the home which was in later years the Alden Eames home was built on the site.

It was in that home that Timothy Walker (Capt. Timothy) was born. The home was destroyed by fire during the 1950s.

The Wilmington Handicapped Affairs Committee will undergo a major change on July 1, when it becomes a commission.

Founded in 1982, the committee has worked to improve the situation of handicapped persons in Wilmington. Projects undertaken by the commission include a survey of handicapped persons, arranging for a telecommunications device for deaf persons at the police station, and working with businessmen and town officials to make buildings and physical environments accessible to handicapped persons.

Handicapped Committee becomes a commission

The committee has also been known as AIM, for Access Is Mandatory.

The committee has been working as a committee appointed by the selectmen, with no specified number of persons, although there are usually about 10 or 11 working members of the committee. Present members include Chairman Larry Curtis, Carol Beaudoin, Al Deprez, Judy DiPalma, Virginia Doucette, Robert Doucette, Mary Hanson, Lillian Brown, Joan Daley, Larz "Fred"

Neilson, Elaine Hachey, Peggy Ryan, Dick Duggan.

The annual town meeting approved the establishment of a Wilmington Handicapped Commission, which will take effect on July 1. The commission will exist as a matter of law, and will have seven members.

Parallel to the commission, a new non-profit organization will be established which will be able to conduct activities beyond the scope of the commission. While the commission will be dealing with matters such as implementation of laws benefitting handicapped persons, the non-profit group will be able to raise funds, conduct events, and provide some input and support for matters before the commission.

The AIM committee held its final meeting on Thursday night. Chairman Larry Curtis announced a list of those he was recommending for the town manager to name to the commission. They include himself, Mary Hanson, Fred Neilson, Richard Gage, Ken Spinelli, Donald Tucker, and Robert Doucette, chairman of the Board of Selectmen.

Walker home

The men who marched with Captain Timothy Walker

On Concord Day, in 1775, the Wilmington Minutemen, and Minutemen from nearby towns marched, probably before dawn, to a point in Bedford, from which point they could later decide on whether or not to attack the British forces, and where such an attack should be.

It is not clear, from such existing records that this paper has, that there were orders to the captains of the Minutemen companies, but there most certainly was an existing agreement, for all the companies marched to that place in Bedford.

The Militia companies in the various towns did not march as promptly as did the Minutemen, but march they did. The Militia was made up of all able bodied men, from 16 to, it is believed, 60.

Woburn had three companies of Militia, in areas now corresponding roughly, to Winchester, Woburn and Burlington. Those three companies marched to Lexington under the command of Major Baldwin.

Other towns, such as Wilmington and Tewksbury marched, it is to be presumed, to Bedford. There is a written record in existence giving the names of those who marched. The record comes, it is to be believed, from the families of the Gowing family.

Daniel Gowing was a private, in the Capt. Timothy Walker Company of Colonel Green's regiment. The company, marched on the alarm of April 19, and served six and a half days. He later became a sergeant, on a list dated July 8, 1776, or men who were "responsible for turns" of service in the Crown Point (Lake Ticonderoga) expedition. Daniel Gowing, with his son Daniel Gowing Jr. were credited with one turn.

Daniel Gowing Jr., like his father, served in the Wilmington Militia commanded by Capt. Walker on Concord Day for six and a half days.

Later he served in the regiment of guards that was guarding the British prisoners taken at Saratoga, and who had been under the command of General Burgoyne.

He served for 25 days from Feb. 10, 1778 to April 3, 1778, at Fort No. 2 in Cambridge (near the present site of the County Court House). The company in which he served was commanded by Capt. Cadwallader Ford, who had been the captain of the Wilmington Minutemen on Concord Day.

Cost for each clinic is $10. Register in person Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Summer playground

The Wilmington Recreation Department will run its summer playground program Monday, July 1 through Friday, August 16. It will be held behind the Glen Road town hall for children six to 12. This program is free of charge except for field trips. It runs from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Field trips include bowling, golf, Stoneham Zoo, Crane's Beach to name a few. Playground activities include arts and crafts, bicycle safety, scavenger hunts, games, tournaments and more.

Leaders Lori Hanlon, Kathy Robinson and Janet Crowley invite all children in grades one through six to join them in what promises to be a summer of fun.

Volunteer teens would be greatly appreciated to assist the leaders in supervising the children. Any boy or girl who is 13 or older is more than welcome to come and help. Those interested should call the Recreation office, 658-4270 between 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Town Beach opens Saturday

The Town Beach at Silver Lake opens this Saturday and will remain open through Sunday, August 25.

The public beach is open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily except Sunday when the beach is open at noon.

The beach is open to Wilmington residents and their guests. Proof of residence may be required.

During hours of operation the Recreation Department stations lifeguards at the main beach and opens the bathhouse for public use.

Bentley basketball camp

Once again Bentley College will offer a pair of basketball camps this summer. Once called 'the best basketball camp in New England' a boys' resident camp will be held August 4-9. The boys' and girls' day camp will follow two weeks later, August 19-23.

Bentley College Athletic Director Al Shields and men's basketball coach Frank Sullivan will serve as directors for the resident camp, while Shields and women's basketball coach Kathy Sanborn will handle the same role during the day camp.

Shields, the only athletic director in Bentley history, served as the college's first basketball coach, a position he held from 1963-78. During that time, he guided the Falcons to a 258-106 record and a string of five consecutive NCAA Division II tournament appearances (1972-76).

Sullivan and Sanborn both met with great success this past season, their first as head coaches at Bentley. Both guided their respective teams to 25-6 records and an NCAA tournament berth.

Sullivan, who received a number of Coach of the Year awards for his efforts during the 1984-85 campaign, was a Division I assistant for 10 years prior to his appointment at Bentley. Most recently, he had worked under P.J. Carlesimo at Seton Hall.

Sanborn, an assistant at Boston University during the 1983-84 season, was previously the head coach at New England College for three years.

For additional information, call the athletic office at 891-2993.

Yankees win pitchers' duel

Major League

Yankees 3 Tigers 2

Eric Engdahl of the Yankees and Andy Parr of the Tigers hooked up in an excellent pitching duel. Eric allowed only four hits while striking out 15. Andy allowed only three hits while striking out nine. Key Yankee hits came from George Melitse, Andy Jamerson and Jimmy Mediros.

The Tiger offense was supplied by Joe Lessard, Mike Gaglione and Parr.

White Sox 12 A's 3

Bobby 'Moose' Caruso was turned loose on the A's, allowing only three hits while striking out seven. Fred D'Amore, Greg Scarfo and Dennis Walsh keyed the Sox offensive attack. Christian Armata and George Orfaly contributed some fancy glove work.

Judy O'Connell, Kefin O'Herne and Kevin Lee sparked the A's offense.

Orioles 13 Tigers 6

The battling Birds took on the Tigers this week successfully. Robbie MacDonald's pitching and 3-5 at the plate highlighted the victory. Steve McGlinchey (3-5), Derek Stokes (3-5), Mike Morris (3-5) and Jeff Cornell (3-4) led the Orioles offense. Pat Trio made a super play at third to anchor the O's defense.

A tip of the hat goes to Jeff DiPerri, who stayed in the game after being hit by a pitch.

The Tigers received well played games from Ken Vachon, Andy Parr, Chris Johnson, John O'Reilly, and Brian MacDonald.

Tigers 7 White Sox 4

The Tigers behind the one hit, 15 strikeout performance of Andy Parr, bested the White Sox. Key Tiger hits came from Joe McFayden, Mike Pilcher, Ray Metcalfe and Brian MacD Donald.

The White Sox received strong pitching from Danny Godin and Chris Sullivan, who gave up only three runs. Dennis Walsh collected the lone Sox hit and Jim Palman played well defensively.

Minor League

Astros 11 Dodgers 7

Robert Baronowski blasted a grand slam homerun to lead the Astros over the Dodgers at Rotary Park. Jackie Sullivan's bat and pitching combined with the the pitching of Jeff Valiere were too much for the Dodgers.

Tommy Zaya and Ken McArthur keyed the Dodgers offense, while Mike Botte and Dave Balestri made some outstanding fielding plays.

Farm League

Cubs 10 Royals 1

The Cub bats of Joe Alonardo, Charlie Kaeambrasas, Mike Alonardo and Andy Armata combined with the overall defensive play of Ray Parker, Albie Georgregorio, and Matt Carozza were too much for the Royals. The timely hitting of Chris Botte and Paul Ware kept the Royals in the game as well as the defensive play of Peter Pellegrini, Nathan Balestrieri and Kristi Lyman.

Cubs 12 Rangers 0

The Cub bats were smoking as they pounded out 14 hits. The offense was led by Mike Alonardo, James LaCane, and Mike Lecencia. Roy Parker supplied the pitching and Tom Siracusa the defense.

Softball

Warriors 11 Blue Barons 2

Jackie Lutz got the game ball after allowing only one run in four innings and collecting two RBI's on two hits. Christina Potito had a triple and three RBI's. Jen Patterson and Julie Robinson chipped in with two hits apiece and Andrea Kane batted in the game winning run.

Warriors 7 Sluggers 3

Mary Fisher paced the Warriors offense with four RBI's. Sheila McEwen batted in Julie Biangregorio with the winning run. The infield of Andrea Kane, Mary Fisher, Kristen Daley and Becky Powers played another solid game.

Warriors 10 Rockets 4

Mary Fisher smashed a grand slam homerun in the fourth inning to earn the game ball. Karen O'Leary batted in Becky Powers with the winning run as the Warriors scored six runs in the first inning.

The game ended on a tremendous doubleplay when Becky Powers went to her right to grab a hard line drive, but the throw to first for the double play went wide. Sheila McEwen ran the ball down, relayed it to Becky, who threw a strike to Christina Potito. Christina blocked the plate and tagged out the runner coming from third base.

Diane Sullivan had two hits and Ann-Marie Casey had a triple for the Rockets.

Senior League

Yankees 13 - Rangers 0

Jason Bere and Chris Lee combined for a two hit shutout as the Yankees ended their season (9-9) on a successful note. Lee and Bere also led the Yankees' offense with three hits each. Mike and Jamie Robichaud had two hits each.

Pat Nally, Jonathan Oliver and Steve Pasquale each had a hit. Defensively Chris Lee and Mike Robichaud made fine plays at short. Mark Lee, at second and Pat (Lefty) Nally behind the plate also played well.

For the Rangers Ryan Churchill, Mark Palmisano and Casey Bolger made fine catches in the outfield. Ryan Churchill and Steve Murray had the Rangers hits.

A's 15 - Orioles 1

The A's Mike Lombard missed a perfect game when Dave King got a hit in the second and Mike Dunn hit one for the Orioles in the fourth. (Lombard faced 26 batters, striking out nine.) The A's had a 17 hit attack spread pretty much through the batting order.

Paul DeFronzo 3-3 and BB scored three of the four times he was at bat.

Brian Mullins 1-1 and 2BB scored all three times he was on and made a spectacular shot-string catch in leftfield. Mike LaCava was 2-3 with three RBI.

Power supplied by Pagliarulo 2-4, Cammel 2-3, Walsh 2-2 and BB, White three run double in the sixth.

This win, coupled with the loss by the White Sox to the Twins, guaranteed the A's the best record in their Division and a playoff spot for the town championship.

Orioles 10 Rangers 1

After losing two straight, Oriole bats exploded against a Ranger team that was playing in a game that didn't mean anything but pride.

Orioles Dave Schmitt likes the number four. He was four from with four RBI's, one triple and homerun. Jeff Murphy went four for four with two RBI's and a triple. Winning pitcher Chuck McEwen went three for three with four RBI's and a triple. Mike Scalfani drove in three runs. Brian Gibson hit a triple and Dana Surprenant went two for three with a double and three RBI's. The Rangers Walsh scored the only run.

Phillies 8 Royals 3

Richard Murphy and David Fleming each hit a homerun to lead the Phillies. John Soule and Mike Patterson had two hits each. Scott Nolan and Derek Santini made good fielding plays.

The Royals got good pitching by Chris Botte and Paul Ware and hits by Kristi Lyman, Jason Gardner and Danny Fitzgerald. The Phillies hitting was led by timely hits by David Fleming, Scott Nolan and Mike Patterson. John Soule pitched well and was backed by good defensive plays by Ryan Groves, David Maglio, Ken Bourinot, David Caccamesi and Richard Murphy.

The Padres' hitting was paced by Michael Moore, Steve Smith and Jay Iannachino. Dan Lutz, Ken Hart and Brian Surran made fine plays in the field.

Padres 9 Rangers 8

The Padres came from behind to nip the Rangers on a homerun by Jim McHugh. Dan Lutz had two hits and Steve Walsh and Kelly McLean had hits. Nancy Pote and Wesley Durham made good fielding plays.

The Rangers had strong pitching by Jason Early, who also hit a homerun. Jeff Bodah had two hits and Chris Crowell, Ricky Bouche and Erik Shaffer played well in the field.

Angels 15 Expos 8

The Angels knocked off the Expos behind the pitching of Wendell Holmes, Alan Dellascio and Eric Froton. The hitting was led by Joey Zukas, Sean Ballou, Dan Ballou and Dave DeSantis. Chris Corby scored three runs and Marc Trinchera scored twice.

The Expos got good pitching from Timmy O'Dea and John MacKinnon and hits by Tom Belanson, Bobby Kelly, Sean Mahoney and Steve Chappie.

Phillies 14 Expos 5

Defense led the Phillies in this win. Ken Bourinot made a great catch with the bases loaded and there were good plays turned in by Brian Damelio, Ryan Groves, David Giles, Derek Santini, David Caccamesi and Richard Murphy.

David Fleming, John Soule and E.J. Merrill each had important hits.

Timmy O'Dea and Adam Holt pitched well for the Expos.

Mariners 16 Blue Jays 13

The Mariners outlit the Blue Jays to win a close game. For the Mariners, Danny Bento pitched well and had three hits. Robbie Smith, Ryan Swasey and Rod MacDonald each had two hits.

Jason Mullen had a homerun and a single and Mike Potito and Greg Peters each had hits. Buddy Pratt pitched well and was backed by three fine defensive plays by Greg Peters and Bryon Burke.

Important runs were scored by Stephen Walsh, Mike Pastore, Chris Chioceola and John Luse.

The Blue Jays had good all around play from Shane DeMaggio, Chris Gill, Kevin Camell and John Lynch.

'Factory outlets' of the '80s

Bay State booming with bargains

By Christina Tree

Factory outlet once meant a large mill building with a small room set aside for selling half-price "seconds." In Massachusetts — which boasts more outlets than the five other New England states put together — this breed of bargain trove now comes in many sizes and shapes.

"Twenty years ago I manufactured raincoats and we sold the seconds off in the space between those two posts," says Louis Secatore, gesturing to an area in a onetime Fall River textile mill that represents 5 percent of his present retail space.

Four years ago, Mr. Secatore bought the entire brick mill and turned it into MillTowne Market. He filled the basement with well-displayed quality clothing, turned the first floor into a handsome mall, lined with a mix of 12 outlets ranging from Brass Desires (selling fixtures and furnishings at half the price charged in its Newport, R.I., store) to the Original Raincoat Outlet. There's also a small cafe.

"Shoppers want better surroundings, better merchandise than they used to," says Secatore, explaining that his is an "off-price specialty store" offering the "deepest cost cuts" available on this season's high-fashion clothing.

Fall River is the state's most striking monument to the textile industry. Here mammoth five- and six-story mills rise in granite tiers above Mount Hope Bay, many of them now housing outlets for merchandise produced elsewhere.

A few factories still sell their own wares. Fall River Knitting Mills is piled high with 150,000 sweaters. The "world's largest sweater" graces the front wall and in the back there is a play corner: nine fish tanks, two parakeets, and a pile of toys. Through a window you can watch women stitching and sorting.

The better to serve hordes of shoppers (chartered buses converge on this area from every point of the Northeast), more than 50 "factory outlets" now cluster within five blocks in Fall River's "Heart District."

Here a former potato chip factory has been transformed into the "Quality Factory Outlet Center" (18 stores); adjoining granite bastions are now "the Tower Outlet Mill" (a half-dozen shops); and Fall River Outlet Center (21 shops). Name-brand clothing for the whole family, not to mention hats, shoes, sneakers, luggage, jewelry, and housewares, are all priced from 30-50 percent below retail prices.

On occasion, a cruise ship puts into Fall River, expressly so that its passengers can shop. Last year 1,000 shoppers' buses checked in with the Bristol County Chamber of Commerce. Three times that number, it's guessed, actually came.

Last year 1,000 buses checked in with the Bristol County Chamber of Commerce. Three times that number, it's guessed, actually came.

The buses also stop at "VF," a massive warehouse in Dartmouth (between Fall River and New Bedford). The big draw here is a mammoth space lined with dressing rooms, and filled with rack on rack of lingerie, jeans, and women's clothing. Everything costs half of what's marked on the price tag.

New Bedford, also once a major textile producer, is better known for its restored whaling-era waterfront and museums. Still there are a dozen genuine outlets there, most scattered around town, but a growing number clustered in the Whitman Mills, a former textile mill that's now a mall, complete with carpeting, hanging plants, a snack bar, and Muzak.

While southeastern Massachusetts boasts the state's major concentration of outlets, there are many more to be found throughout the state. A new "Inside Outlets" guide published by Harvard Common Press describes more than 250 "outlets" (including many species of discount stores) for the state, of which just 61 are in Bristol County.

The Factory Store Guide to All

New England (Globe Pequot Press) lists 158 outlets for the state, one third of them in Bristol County (which publishes its own free pamphlet guide, available from the B.C.D.C., 70 N. Second Street, Box BR-976, New Bedford, Mass. 02741).

There are two more free guides, one to "31 Outlets in the Connecticut River Valley," "Pioneer Valley Regional," Box 749, Northampton, Mass. 01060; another to "101 Bargain Outlets in Heritage Country," offered by the Worcester County Convention and Visitors Bureau (350 Mechanics Tower, Worcester, Mass. 01608).

Two dozen outlets can be found in and around the central Massachusetts city of Worcester itself (Don Frederick Factory Outlet is worth a trip for the skiwear and coats, many made on the premises, and Eddy's

FM TALK Our gallivanting-around correspondent is on the trail of another story, so until he returns, here are a few more of those off-beat tidbits of American history:

The mere mention of the drug cocaine raises eyebrows these days, but it was one hundred years ago that the word cocaine appeared regularly in advertisements in Life magazine. The ads were for Allen's Cocaine Tablets, which were for the throat and nerves. The ads claimed that Allen's Cocaine Tablets cured sore throats, neuralgia, nervousness, headaches, colds and sleeplessness. The cocaine tablets were marketed especially to vocalists, actors and elocutionists. Times have certainly changed when it comes to the way we regard cocaine!

In "The Life of William McKinley," by Charles S. O'Connell, it is revealed that McKinley professed to receive instructions on how to govern the people from God. In 1899, McKinley told a group of Methodist clergymen that God had advised him to annex the Philippine Islands. McKinley said that God told him to accept the Philippines as a gift from heaven.

If you think automobile pollution is a problem today, consider what Americans had to cope with around 1900. Approximately three million horses inhabited urban America at that time, with each one contributing between twenty and twenty-five pounds of manure each day. New York City alone had about 150,000 horses, adding up to roughly ten million pounds of manure each year! In Rochester, N.Y., the 15,000 horses that lived there created enough pollution in a year to cover an acre of soil and reach 175 feet in the air.

EARLY DEADLINE NEXT WEEK

Adv. Deadline: Mon., 12 noon
News Deadline: Friday at 12 noon

Tewksbury Youth Soccer

Astros boot Falcons, 6-2

Under 12 action
Astros 6 - Falcons 2

In games June 15, the Astros downed the Falcons with four for awesome Steven Field and one each for Jim Nowak (who also had two assists) and Wally Jopp. Despite only having one player on the bench for most of the game, the Astros Keith Weber and Sarah Smith did a remarkable job on defense with no rest.

The Falcons didn't make it easy for the opposition with their two from talented Joey Centrella, one on an assist by Sal Ruocchio. Halfbacks Peter O'Callaghan and Joshua DeRome and Tommy Bryant in goal anchored the defense superbly.

Clippers 4 - Comets 3

The Clippers offense split up their goals with one each for James Martin, Joe Stevens, Billy Carroll and Maria Giglio with excellent midfielding by Bobby Sharkey and Brian Kreuger to clinch the win (and first place spot).

The Comets were tough with Mark Silva scoring two and Jimmy Maxwell one. Special mention should go to forwards Lonnie Roscillo and defensepersons Scott Doyle and Corinne Angelo for their efforts.

Cougars 7 - Wildcats 1

Cougars star forward Sal Reitano netted four and teammate Jimmy Hackett had the hat trick, with good all-around play by Erin McSheehy and Jeff Araujo and aggressive defense by Ryan Hayes and Kevin Mehigan.

The Wildcats fine forward Chris Altieri scored all four for his team, one unassisted, two on assists from Jimmy Durost and Brian Hooper and Joe Bangs and the fourth on a penalty kick. Excellent all-around team effort despite the loss.

Spartans 4 - Dynamos 2

The Spartans beat the tied-for-first spot Dynamos with two goals by Gregg Scurka, one apiece for Joe Estee and Gary Walsh. Defensive standouts were Kerrie Golan, Laurie Garrigg and Mark Plackowitz.

The Dynamos Scott Ludwig put in his first of the season on a header from Scott Selissen with Peter McRae scoring unassisted. Super work by Timalie Glencross at halfback and fullback, Steve Amiraault at fullback and Danny Gay at both forward and fullback positions.

Academic Awareness camp

For the fifth summer, 125 boys will spend a week learning the fine points of basketball and in the process gain a new appreciation of the importance of education.

Merrimack College will host the Academic Basketball Awareness Camp (A.B.A.) on the college's North Andover campus from Thursday, June 27 through Wednesday, July 3. The boys, ranging in age from eight to 16, will stay at the Monican Center residence hall and spend their time in a variety of basketball clinics and academic enrichment programs.

The program is directed by Bert Hammel, head basketball coach of the Merrimack College Warriors, and coordinated by Steve Kelley and Bill Robertson of the Lawrence Boys' Club. The program began as a day camp for 50 boys for five days in 1981. Today, the ABA is a seven day overnight program for 125 boys chosen from over 200 applying.

"When I was an assistant coach with the Milwaukee Bucks," coach Hammel recalls, "Junior Bridgeman ran free clinics for young people, under a corporate sponsorship. I promised myself that if I ever became a head coach anywhere I would institute this kind of program."

Coach Hammel said that three criteria were set when the program was established four years ago. That it would be free, that it would be about basketball, and it would have an academic component. "The program also gives us a chance to keep alive the old ABA initials of the American Basketball Association," the coach joked.

As well as basketball clinics, students also attend seminars and demonstrations in such topics as computers, science, local history, personal hygiene

Having your baby is a quality-of-life issue with us . . .

New England Memorial Hospital — with a venerable reputation for compassion and skill in the medical arts — has offered family centered maternity care for decades. We deliver over 1,000 babies a year using natural techniques balanced by the right amount of technology.

Anesthesia or not depends on your choice. You and your physician determine the number of family members or other supporters allowed at time of birth. Birthing room available if you prefer.

Grandparents, and baby's brothers & sisters are welcome during visiting hours. Parenting and childbirth education classes also available.

New England Memorial Hospital is long noted for its quality of care and intensity of concern for the mother-to-be and her family. Access is easy; the staff friendly and professional; the hospital environment stress-free — and so is the parking.

We're easy to get to — only 7-miles north of Boston, just off Route 93 in Stoneham (between Route 128 and Boston) — overlooking Spot Pond and surrounded by grass, tall trees and fresh air.

New England Memorial Hospital is a great place to have a Birth Day! Ask your doctor about us, or call (617) 665-6803.

Summer school program relocated

A change of location was announced this week for the Wilmington Summer Schools program.

Instead of being held at the high school as planned, the six-week program will be held at the North Intermediate School.

The program will run, as previously announced, from July 1 to August 9. Two sessions will be offered: one from 7:45 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. and the other from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

According to Matthew Joyce, program coordinator, the removal of asbestos from the high school in preparation for its renovation prompted administrators to look for another location this summer.

"Rather than become involved in a health issue, we felt it would be more appropriate to take our staff and students to another school," he said.

He said his staff would be calling as many parents of students already registered as they could reach. He said he was concerned, however, about those who may have already gone on vacation.

The program offers courses in English, math, science, social studies and possibly physical education. They offer students failing one or more courses an opportunity to make up that course over the summer. All classes will run subject to enrollment.

Registration will be held June 24 to 28 at the high school guidance office from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Students may also register by mail.

Tuition is $75 per course plus a $10 registration fee. Students must also secure the permission of their building principal.

More information may be obtained by calling 658-7108.

Wilmington police news

A Wilmington man was arrested early Saturday morning after officers responded to a break in Elia's store in North Wilmington. James P. Murphy, 21, of Wildwood Street was arrested and charged with break and entry in a building, with intent to commit a felony, larceny of over $100, and malicious damage to property. The arrest was made after a chase through the swampy area of Lubbers Brook, behind Elia's store. Officer Peterson, assisted by K9 Trooper Pugsley of the Andover Barracks made the arrest. Another individual managed to flee the area. In Woburn Court Monday morning Murphy had his case continued to July 22, for his attorney to appear.

Officers Neville and McCue, on Tuesday afternoon, June 18, arrested Robert Kenney, 17, of Dobson Avenue, Wilmington on a violation of probation. The arrest took place after an investigation of a disturbance at the Kenney home. He was held for appearance in court Wednesday.

Also arrested, that same evening by Officer Neville was a Weymouth man, after a computer check revealed several arrest warrants had been issued in his name. Jeffrey Coddere of Evans Drive, Weymouth was held for a court appearance Wednesday.

Officer LeGrand, on Thursday night arrested a Burlington man James Seelzo, on a default warrant. Friday morning Officer Shepard arrested a Tewksbury man, Richard Rhine of Lake Street on a Tewksbury warrant for defaulting traffic fines.

Officer Frank Hancock arrested Kenneth DeYoung of Sparhawk Drive, Wilmington about 1 a.m. Saturday after investigating a reported traffic complaint in the Cunningham Road area. DeYoung was charged with operating a car while under the influence of alcohol and with leaving the scene of a property damage accident. His case was continued to July 23 in Woburn Court.

Saturday evening, after investigating an accident on the Route 129 bridge, Officer Frank Hancock arrested Sean P. Reardon, 20 of Fillmore Drive, Billerica. He was charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and failure to stop for a signal. In Woburn Court, Monday morning, his case was continued for a conference on July 11.

Henry LaCasse of North

Reading was arrested early Tuesday morning by Officer Steve LaRivee, by virtue of a default warrant issued by the state police in Andover. He was turned over to the state police.

A Billerica man, Charles E. Broock, Jr., 22, of Springwell Road was arrested Tuesday morning by Officer Frank Mauriello. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle after revocation of his license, and operating with defective equipment.

Trailbike complaints are on the increase. Nine complaints were received in the past week by the Wilmington police.

There were five auto accidents in Wilmington during the past week, 27 alarms, 15 arrests and 12 disturbances. There were three cases of break and entry, one of assault and battery and three instances of domestic problems.

There was one fire, three cases of medical assistance given, and eight persons were taken into protective custody. There were two reports of suspicious activity, two trespassing complaints, two reports of stolen motor vehicles, and one was recovered. Three threats, two traffic complaints and one report of vandalism were received.

Wilmington senior topics

Statue of Liberty

Nearly 17,000,000 immigrants entered this country through Ellis Island between 1892 and 1954. More than 100,000,000 Americans can trace their heritage back to them. As part of today's nationwide campaign to restore and preserve the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, the Ellis Island Oral History Project wants to make sure that the story of those immigrants, their hopes, fears, joys, losses, accomplishments and courage is recorded and preserved. They plan to interview 200 people who either came through Ellis or worked there between these years.

Anyone who came through during those years, or knows someone who did, is asked to contact: Ellis Island Oral History Project, P.O. Box 20375, Greeley Square Station, New York, NY 10001.

Minuteman menu

Menus are subject to change without notice. Transportation is available on some of the days, especially for handicapped people.

Monday: Lasagna, meat sauce, green beans, sourdough bread, fresh fruit.

Tuesday: Juice, turkey divan, herbed rice, oatmeal bread, chilled fruit.

Wednesday: Barbecued pork rib patty, potato salad, cole slaw, corn bread, watermelon.

Thursday: Holiday, no meals served.

Friday: Tuna salad, lettuce, tomato, american cheese, macaroni salad, hamburger roll, brownie.

Council on Aging to meet

The July Council on Aging meeting will be held in the senior Center Monday, July 1, starting at 1:30 p.m. An update on the Buzzell Center will be given. Attendance at these meetings will enlighten seniors on the progress and reasons for any delays. The election of officers and other business of interest will also be discussed.

Arts and crafts picnic

The arts and crafts picnic will be held on the Tewksbury - Wilmington Elks grounds Thursday, July 11. The day will begin at 9 a.m. with coffee and muffins served. The chicken barbecue meal with all the trimmings will be served at noon. A $2.00 non refundable deposit will be required when signing up.

Wilmington Seniors

Week of July 1
West Intermediate
Monday: Chilled juice, chicken parmigiana (chicken with mozzarella cheese and tomato sauce), fluffy rice, green beans, bread and butter, chocolate pudding with topping and milk.

Tuesday: Chilled orange juice, Salisbury steak with gravy, mashed potato, cole slaw, bread and butter, ice cream and milk.

Wednesday: Chilled apple juice, oven baked chicken, whipped potato, buttered squash, cranberry sauce, bread and butter, jello with topping and milk.

Thursday: Holiday, no lunch served.

Friday: Chilled fruit, salad plate with tuna fish, tomato and lettuce, assorted vegetables, potato chips, rolls and butter, ice cream and milk.

Fourth of July

Seniors have been invited to take part in the 4th of July week long celebration. Seniors will be on the common Tuesday, July 2 from 6 to 10 p.m. On Church grounds in front of the tennis courts, seniors will set up two tables. One will offer articles placed on chances. These articles will be raffled off that night if enough money is taken in to show a profit. The other table will offer goodies and coffee. To make this table a success much help will be needed. Goodies of all kinds such as brownies, cookies, cupcakes, pies, cakes and candies will be appreciated. Take them to the Center Tuesday during the day or to the common in the evening. All money earned from these two tables will go toward the renovation.

Dr. Leavitt, July 5

Dr. Leavitt, podiatrist will be at the Senior Center Friday, July 5 starting at 9 a.m. He will check and treat ailments of the feet. Please have Medicare and Medex cards or latest Medicaid. Dr. Leavitt will remain at the Center only while there are seniors waiting to see him, he will not wait for those arriving later in the morning.

Hot lunch program closed

The fall hot lunch program has closed until September. The summer program will begin July 1. The time the meal is served in the summer is will be 11:45 a.m., not at 12:30 as it is in the fall program. Any senior may go to the West Intermediate School for a meal. It is not required that a call be made to the center the Friday before for the week. Those wanting a meal should call the day before. Meals are ordered at 9 a.m. Those who are shut in can have meals delivered providing they call the Center and order it.

door to the church. It will run from 9:00 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

The theme for the first Mother's Class will be "Mothers are People, Too", and will deal with a mother's self-esteem, needs and directions, in light of God's purpose for our lives. It will be taught by Trish Ray, and is open to any and all mothers. There will be arrangements for baby sitting any children who are too young (infants through 2 years) for classes at Vacation Bible School. This is an excellent opportunity for mothers (from any church) to be uplifted and encouraged.

In addition, as in past years, classes will be held for children completing kindergarten through Grade 6 plus a new class for nursery children (ages 2-3). The theme of "Let's Share the Good News of Jesus," will be emphasized during the Vacation Bible School day of 9:00 a.m. to noon, June 24-28, July 1-3.

MUSIC

Tuesday, July 9th at 8 p.m. - An Evening With Joan Baez at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts in Andover. Tickets $18.50 and $16, available at the Collins Center Box Office, Shawshen Road off Rt. 133 and Rt. 93 in Andover or by phone at (617) 470-1905.

VOLUNTEERS

Summer is a time for beaches, barbecues, and boating.

It can be a time for another activity too: Volunteering.

The Regional Health Center in Wilmington (RHCW) welcomes area residents to the volunteer program. There are openings in various RHCW departments including Community Health Education, Occupational Health Services, and Health Records.

Candidates for the program should be 14 years old or older and should plan to volunteer for a minimum of four hours a week.

For more information, call Vera Milano, volunteer coordinator, at the RHCW, 657-3910, ext. 532.

PARENTING WORKSHOP

Winchester Hospital will sponsor a Parenting Workshop on Thursdays during September from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Kingsbury Seminar Room of the hospital. Pediatricians and a child psychiatrist on the staff of Winchester Hospital will lead the Workshop given for parents, grandparents and caretakers.

The first sessions will be devoted to a discussion of children ages 4-8 on September 5; ages 8-11 on September 12; ages 11-14 on September 19. The final meeting on September 26 will address "Parental Stress."

Letter

Dear editor, Middlesex East:

The Wakefield Recycling Committee (WRC) and its two co-sponsors extend thanks to your citizens for participating in our paper drive on Saturday and Sunday, June 15 and 16. Thanks to their thrifty and conscientious recycling habits, 46.59 tons were realized. The paper has been sold for $590.90, and $1,057.59 was saved from dumping fees at RESCO. Another 792 trees were kept from being made into paper by recycling this amount of wastepaper.

This was our 16th monthly paper drive. So far, we have collected 644.09 tons, earned $9,304.25 from the sale of the paper; saved $13,296.41 in dumping fees; and kept 10,949 trees standing tall. We have also found new homes for tons of magazines and books, which we offer free to our recyclers. At the end of the day, all unclaimed magazines are loaded onto the trailers for the hydropulper; books are donated to prisons and by arrangement with the Wakefield Elks, to the Bedford VA Hospital. We have also collected about 90 pair of glasses for the Wakefield Lions.

Recyclers from your town are reminded that our next drive is Saturday and Sunday, July 20 and 21 (it's always on the third weekend of the month), from 9-3, rain or shine, at the Junior High School, 525 Main St. Bundled or bagged newspapers, magazines and phone books; eyeglasses; computer paper and computer cards (bundled separately, please); all are welcome. Loose papers, cardboard, plastic, wood and metal are not welcome.

Your recyclers are always welcome. Send them by for a shopping spree in the books and magazines, a warm hello and a big thank you.

Sincerely,

Kristen Henshaw

Registration is required in August. Those who wish to register or who want further information are asked to call the education department at Winchester Hospital.

ACUPUNCTURE & PAIN

Acupuncture is a method of healing the body that originated in China approximately 5,000 years ago. It is a natural healing therapy in that it works to create a balance in the body's function. There are no drugs used and consequently no side effects. The body is brought back to a state of health from which point the individual can maintain his health. The acupuncture needles are very fine and therefore relatively painless.

A free lecture in acupuncture and its treatment of pain will be held at the Stonham Medical & Diabetes Clinic, 106 Main Street, Stoneham on Tuesday, July 9 at 7:30 P.M. Reservations are necessary.

For reservations and/or information call 438-6132.

CONCORD BAND

The Lowell Heritage State Park continues its concert series at Sanpas Pavillion located on the Vandenberg Esplanade along the Merrimack River.

The Concord Band will be featured in a concert series July 2 and 9 from 8 p.m. - 10 p.m. Organized in 1959, the Concord Band is a 70 member symphonic wind ensemble in the tradition of the great military bands. Among the 12 music selections directed by William Toland, the band will play the Star Spangled Banner, Big Beat Dixie, Trombone King, and Themes from 007.

Bring a chair or spread a blanket, but come and enjoy a night under the stars at the free concert.

For further information contact the Visitor Center at 459-1000.

SUBURBAN SINGLES

Open Singles Dance. Knights of Columbus, 130 Lexington Street, Burlington (near Burlington Mall), Telephone 272-2765. Friday, June 28, 8:30 p.m. - 12:30 a.m. Admission $4, all Single Organization Members $3. Door Prizes, low cash bar. Sponsored by The Suburban Singles.

RED CROSS

Summer drivers are needed to fill in for our regular transportation people while they take well-deserved vacations. If you have a half day a week and a driver's license and like people, there is a place for you at the Red Cross. If you are interested in driving people to needed medical appointments, please call the Red Cross at 665-1351.

CHILDREN'S DISCOVERY

Are you looking for a fun-filled educational experience to enjoy with your children and family this summer?

The Children's Discovery Museum is delighted to announce extended summer hours for members and visitors.

From June 25 through September 1, the museum will be open from 10 A.M. to 4:30 P.M., Tuesdays through Sundays.

There's lots for families to enjoy and explore in the museum's ten hands-on "discovery rooms," each with its own educational theme. Piece together a wall-sized dinosaur skeleton; build a long twisting domino tumble; surround yourself with a giant bubble; dress up in grandmother's attic; and much, much more!

Bring a picnic and sit in the shade near our charming 100-year-old Victorian House while your children play on the museum's creative sailboat playground or woodland path.

The museum is appropriate for children 1 through 10 and is especially nice for young children.

Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for children, children under age one and members free.

Family membership for your immediate family is $45 a year for unlimited visits during public hours.

The museum is located on Rte. 27 in Acton, one mile south of Route 2. It is easy to reach via Rte. 495, 128 and the B&M train. Parking is plentiful and free.

Please call the Children's Discovery Museum at 264-4200 for more information.

Lefthander's Day

August 13, 1985, will mark 10 years of celebrating International Lefthanders Day. Parades, conventions, special t-shirts and buttons, radio and television interviews have been among the means to promote Lefthanders Day for the past 10 years, resulting in a raised public awareness of the needs, interests, and unique qualities of lefthanders.

Lefthanders International provides information to the press and public on Lefthanders Day and throughout the year. In addition, LHI publishes numerous research articles, lefty how-to's, and stories on famous lefthanders through its publication, Lefthander Magazine.

Lefthanders International announced its own mail order business for left-handed products, on International Lefthanders Day in 1984. A year later, more than 25,000 Lefthanders Catalogs have been distributed to lefthanders all over the U.S. and Canada. Catalogs are available from LHI for $1.50 each.

The 1985 Lefthanders Day anniversary will be commemorated with special "Don't Be Left Out...International Lefthanders Day, August 13" buttons, and bumper stickers reading "Celebrate International Lefthanders Day, August 13." They are available from LHI for $1.00 each.

Persons interested in obtaining a product catalog, buttons or bumper stickers, should send check or money order to: Lefthanders International, Box 8249, Dept. 135, Topeka, KS 66608.

Lawrence Memorial screenings for safe summer tanning

Bet you can't wait to hit the beach and get that glorious, deep bronze tan that you've been waiting for all winter. How relaxing. How healthy-looking. But days spent soaking up the rays may give you something you didn't bargain for... skin cancer.

According to the National Cancer Institute, one of every seven Americans suffers from some form of skin cancer. Yet sun-bathers continue to flock to beaches and sit by pools despite evidence that sun exposure is the primary cause of most forms of skin cancer.

To alert area residents to the dangerous effects of sun exposure, Lawrence Memorial Hospital of Medford, in cooperation with five area dermatologists and the American Academy of Dermatology, is sponsoring a free skin cancer detection screening to be held on Saturday, June 22 from 9 - 12 p.m. in the LMH Ambulatory Care Center. Doctors Richard Brown of Medford, Marilyn Capek of Winchester, Ronald Hamburger of Melrose, David Taub of Medford and Herbert White of Malden will be on hand to examine patients and offer advice on sun protection.

The consequences of prolonged sun exposure may be severe, sometimes leading to skin cancer. Skin cancer has several different forms; the three most common types are basal cell carcinoma, squamous cell carcinoma and malignant melanoma, the most serious. In non-melanoma skin cancers, it is the cumulative sun exposure that does damage, especially on the face, hands, mouth and the rim of the ear. The most common areas for melanoma cases are the hips and tops of the legs since the only time these areas are exposed to the sun is on the beach.

Basal cell carcinomas usually appear as slowly growing, raised nodules that may crust and sometimes bleed. These occur most often on the head, neck, hands and trunk.

Squamous cell carcinomas, the second most common form of skin cancer, are usually raised, red or pink nodules or warty growths that ulcerate in the center. These cells can spread to other parts of the body if not detected early. Squamous cell carcinomas affect more than 80,000 persons each year.

Melanoma is responsible for more than 75 percent of all skin cancer deaths. These begin as a brownish, flat blemish or develop from a pre-existing mole and have irregular borders. Although relatively rare, the incidence of malignant melanoma is increasing at a faster rate than any other form of cancer, except lung cancer in women.

When the sun's rays hit your body, the skin tries to defend itself with the darkening of the pigment, melanin, under the skin's surface. This darkening, or "tan," may look healthy, but it is a sign of skin damage. That healthy look today could create tomorrow's dry skin and wrinkles. Damage to the skin and sun exposure does damage never fades away like your tan does at the end of the summer. It builds. Years from now, you may find yourself with skin cancer.

The two kinds of ultraviolet radiation that sun worshippers should be concerned with are UV-A and UV-B. UV-B is the cloud of sunshine. Although these rays tan, they also cause blood vessels to swell and lead to sunburn. Over time, UV-B rays break down the skin's elasticity, creates wrinkles and can lead to skin cancer. UV-A is the rays emitted in tanning beds popular in health clubs these days. It is believed to be the safer of the two, but evidence is showing up that UV-A rays can also cause serious skin damage.

The American Academy of Dermatology encourages everyone to take certain precautions this summer to help guard against skin cancer.

Minimize sun exposure, especially during the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Apply a sunscreen before every exposure to the sun and reapply every two hours or after swimming.

Use a sunscreen on overcast days. The sun's rays are as damaging to you on cloudy, hazy days as they are on a sunny one.

Beware of reflective surfaces. Sand, concrete and water can reflect more than half the sun's rays onto your skin.

Avoid tanning parlors.

Be aware that certain medications increase sensitivity to the sun. Consult your physician before going into the sun if using antibiotics, cosmetics or birth control pills.

Teach children sun protection early.

Most skin cancers can be cured, but only if detected and treated early. Dermatologists recommend regular self-examinations to detect any changes in the skin's appearance, especially changes in existing moles or blemishes.

For more information or an appointment for the free skin cancer screening please call Lawrence Memorial Hospital of Medford at 396-9250, ext. 1633. Be good to yourself this summer. Learn to tan safely and then enjoy.

Two of the most popular children's books since the turn of the century have been Mark Twain's "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" and "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn." It is interesting to note that in 1905 both of these books were frequently banned from the children's section of libraries. One might think this action would have angered Mr. Twain, and he reportedly was, however, not because of the ban. He was upset because the books were in the children's sections of libraries in the first place. He once told a librarian who'd pulled his books from the children's section that he'd written them for adults and never intended them to end up in children's sections of libraries. Twain once wrote, "It always distresses me when I find that boys and girls have been allowed access to them. The mind that becomes soiled in youth can never again be washed clean."

Nearly everyone believes that Hollywood started up as a movie capital because of its ideal weather conditions, but this isn't so. In "The Rise of the American Film," by Lewis Jacobs, it is revealed that the center of filmmaking began in New York City, where The Motion Picture

Patents Company controlled every aspect of filmmaking. People who wanted to make films outside of the control of this trust could not do so legally, so they moved to southern California, where there was an abundance of good weather and cheap labor. It was also close to the Mexican border, which provided quick escapes whenever legal hassles erupted.

Let's take a brief look at some of the events of the twenties:

In May of 1921 six thousand corpses of American soldiers arrived from Europe in a single day.

In 1921 H.L. Hunt went bankrupt. He turned his life around in the same year when he won his first oil well in a poker game in Arkansas.

America's first shopping center opened for business in 1922 in Kansas City, Kansas.

Two of the biggest selling books in the mid-twenties were Bruce Barton's "The Man Nobody Knows," a book about Jesus as the quintessential businessman, and "The Book Nobody Knows," also by Barton, which was about the bible.

In 1924 Sears-Roebuck dropped White Duck Emigrant Wagon Covers from their catalog.

In 1925 Babe Ruth, after achieving success as both a pitcher and a hitter, earned a salary of $52,000. A year later he earned $80,000.

The yo-yo was invented in the Philippines and then exported to the United States, where it became a pastime that has never quite faded in popularity.

In the mid-twenties Boston was the location of one of the biggest money frauds in history. A clerk by the name of Charles Ponzi offered fifty percent interest on money deposited in his office. For three months, people deposited money. Ponzi quickly accumulated a fortune, because very few people withdrew their money. Finally Ponzi was exposed as a fraud, and the deposits stopped. Ponzi ended up in jail.

The two favorite pastimes of Zelda and Scott Fitzgerald during the mid-twenties: riding on the rooftops of taxis in New York City and bathing, fully clothed, in the fountains around the city.

In 1929 Bing Crosby was sentenced to sixty days in jail for drinking.

"A reformer is a guy who rides through a sewer in a glass-bottomed boat." - New York Mayor Jimmy Walker. Make it a good week.

Bargains

has big savings on name-brand clothing for men and women.

In Gardner, "Chair City of the World," you can choose from eight furniture outlets; three more are in neighboring hill towns of Templeton and Winchendon.

The Blackstone River Valley in southern Worcester County is one of the oldest industrial corners of the country, and many of its mills are architectural as well as bargain finds.

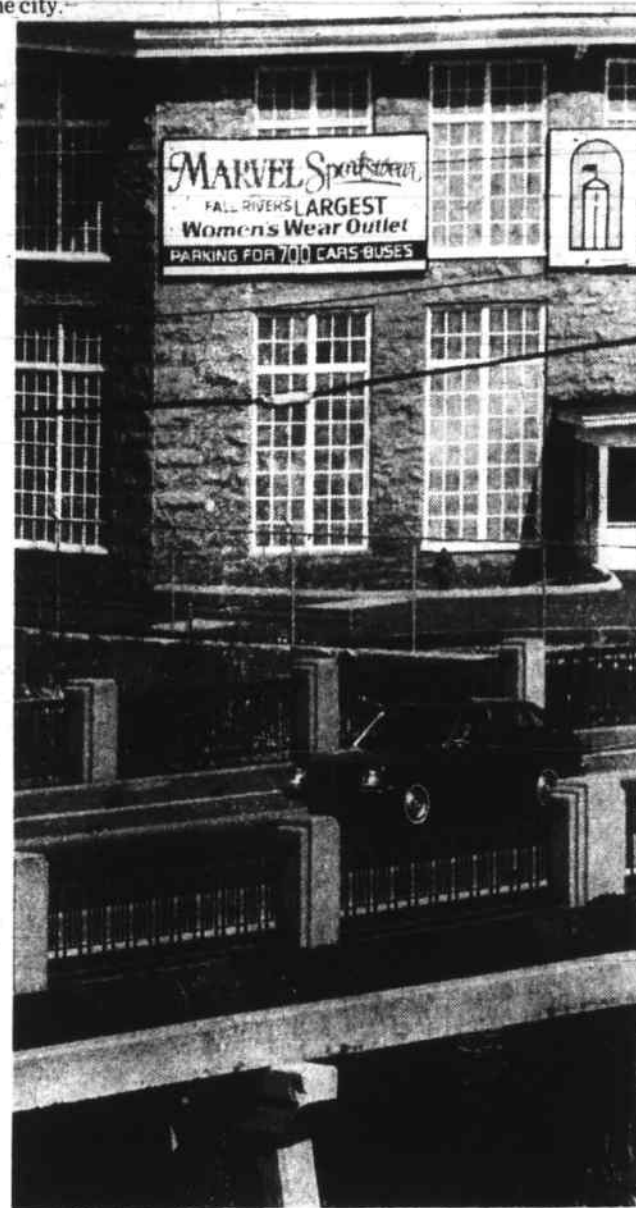

A personal favorite is the Stanley Woolen Mill in Uxbridge, a handsome wooden structure built in 1851 on the Blackstone Canal (completed in 1828 to link Worcester with the harbor at Providence, R.I.) and managed by the Wheelock family for seven generations. The three-story Mill Store features yarns, the fine wools produced in the mill, assorted clothing, silks, and cottons. Tours of the mill itself are offered twice daily.

There are four more outlets in Uxbridge, most notably the Bernat Yarn Center at Uxbridge Yarn Mill Outlet, a pilgrimage point for Boston knitters. You can also spend the night in a former mill owner's mansion in Uxbridge (contact Mary Taft) or in nearby Whitinsville (the Victorian Inn).

Other outlets are widely scattered. Some favorites include North Oxford Mills (an unbeatable selection of braided rugs sold in the old mill that produces them), the cluster of shops in the old Industry Yard in Ware (check out the classic women's suits and skirts at Ware Sports Wear), the Berkshire Coat Factory (skirts, tops, and dresses as well as coats) in Pittsfield, the Old Stone Mill Factory Outlet in Adams (wallpaper), the Windsor Mill Women's Wear Outlet (flannel and hand-printed cotton dresses at up to 70 percent less than their Boston prices) in North Adams, and Polo, Ralph Lauren (where polo ponies gallop across countless shirts) in Lawrence.

Venture up the road from North Oxford Mills and you come upon the home of Clara Barton, founder of the Red Cross. Just up the road from Ware's Industry Yard you can frequently spot bald eagles (from the observation tower on Quabbin Hill).

In Pittsfield don't miss Arrowhead (home of author Herman Melville) or the Berkshire Museum. In my own Massachusetts-outlet prowls I have always found something up the road or around the corner. It's part of the bargain.

Europe: Middlesex style—part II

Editor's note: This is the second of a series of stories from a recent trip to Europe, spent by the writer in the company of 29 others, including 22 high school students from Burlington, Wilmington and Andover.

By JIM ROUILLARD

On a clear day you can see the mountains of Africa. At night a black dog bays at the moon.

Once arrived and hotel-acclimated in the province of Malaga on Spain's Costa del Sol, the 30 Middlesex travelers scattered to the four siroccos, the pleasant Mediterranean winds.

On the second night, while many of the teenagers sought the Malaga discos — duly chaperoned by modern American "duenna and cabalero" (Maria Walton from Burlington High School and her husband Bill) — five adults, from Stoneham, Wilmington, Andover and Chelmsford, slightly chilled by the coolness of the mountain village of Mijas, wandered the coastal streets in search of sustenance and warmth.

We found both, in the heat of African cuisine at El Mandeng, a restaurant owned by a Swiss-African couple, and named for the famous Mandingo people, which once formed a single large African empire.

The meal began calmly, over quiet conversation, fresh endive and smoked trout — proceeded more boisterously with poetry, curried chicken and lamb — and surged to riotous conclusion of songfest, strawberries and flan.

The flan, a molded custard with burnt-caramel icing, was followed by after-dinner remarks, directed to the restaurant at large, which by now consisted only of our party of five, a gaggle of Yorkshire newly-weds, and a pair of young but apparently uptight women from London's Mayfair district.

Our acquaintance with the newly-weds soon led to profuse toasts to England, the Queen, Margaret Thatcher and the American bald eagle.

But it took a second singing of the Yale Whiffenpoof Song to drive off the two Londoners — for which our hosts and our Yorkshire acquaintance thanked us, with enthusiastic referral to "Miguel's," a bistro up the street. There we sipped lemon squash and worked off some of the gargantuan African meal by round-dancing with Spanish men and women so handsome they might have stepped from the frame of a painting by the great Velasquez.

One writer, Dorothy Loder, describes the Malagueños as "typical Andalusians: golden-skinned, dark-eyed, slim, graceful, indolent and pleasure-loving."

As for indolence, we cannot say — but the Andalusians we met at Miguel's answered the rest of Loder's description — and added courtesy, brilliant ivory smiles, and an unflinching welcome to us, as strangers to their region.

Returning from Miguel's to the Hotel Sirocco, through the winding, spotless streets, with the walls gleaming white in the moonlight, I introduced my companions to the howling of the dog who dwelled in his semi-tropical garden retreat behind the hotel.

A light sleeper, I was the only member of the Middlesex group who ever heard the beast from my room — but I slept well nonetheless, waking in time for breakfast of Valencia orange and grapefruit marmalade on fresh buttered croissants, and a day-trip to the Caves of Nerja, with their human skulls fused in stone, and the fabulous palace of the Alhambra, in Granada.

It was during a brief stop in Nerja, for ice cream and coffee, that we came upon a group of Spanish schoolchildren, some of whom greeted us with totally open, fearless and friendly "Hola," or "Hello," from behind their latticework fence. There we first noted an apparent paradox that we cannot explain: it seemed every Spanish child we met was physically beautiful: none ugly, none homely, none even plain; they were all beautiful.

From the beauty of the children, the bus took us to a world of prehistory, peopled by both glittering and murky figures. Reportedly discovered in 1959 by a small boy who chased a ball into a hole, the Caves of Nerja were used by man from the Paleolithic period (30,000 years ago) through the Bronze Age (about 2,000 B.C.), and they are, as the brochure states, of "unimaginable, monumental, haunting beauty."

During thousands of years, the pink, jade, or amethyst limestone droplets have formed fanciful creature-shapes; eagles and gryphons, lions, saints, and other humanoid figures which could be futuristic as Star Wars' Darth Vader, or ancient as Merlin, King Arthur's magician, trapped by the witch Morgan le Fey in pale, shimmering emerald.

Archaeological work in the caves has unearthed ceramics, burial sites, human remains, quartz utensils, domestic furnishings and cavern drawings ranging over their 26,000-year period of human use.

Outside, back in the sunlight, for 300 pesetas (less than $2), you can buy a photo of yourself, blinded inside the caves by a surprise flash. For another 1,000 pesetas, you can have the same photo, transferred as your face in a dish.

From Nerja it was then (for some of the more timid) a nerve-shattering bus ride through hairpin mountain turn and magnificent gorge, along cliff-edge, past Roman, Moorish and Christian ruin, to Granada, last Moorish stronghold in Spain.

In Granada stands a monument to the moment and the place, where Columbus' proposals were finally accepted by Ferdinand and Isabella, enabling the Italian navigator to make his excursion to the New World.

Above the plain, or "vega," the ancient city is set on the slopes of three mountain spurs — with the snowy crest of the Sierra Nevada as a backdrop. The Alhambra is set on the central, highest spur, which presents a precipitous face to the town itself.

"When you first see the Alhambra," writes Darwin Porter, "don't be surprised by its somewhat somber exterior." (I was — for it appears as a stark, rectangular fortress, more appropriate perhaps to Moscow's Red Square than to the region of Andalusia.)

"Remember that the Arabs applied the same principal to their architecture that they did to their women: they kept the outside parts veiled. You have to walk across the threshold to discover the true treasures."

Once inside, you can wander on your own through the richly ornamented open-air rooms, with lace-like walls, ceramics sometimes too rich for the eye, the gardens, fishpond, fountains and the Court of the Lions.

An afternoon is not adequate for viewing the vast Alhambra; a week would not be enough for serious study. The American writer Washington Irving spent three months there in 1829, where he began his "Tales of the Alhambra," but an earlier, less romantic view of the place was left by Henry Swinburne, after a visit in 1775.

Swinburne observed that the

governor, who lived in a small corner of the palace, employed his leisure hours, not in profound speculation or learned research, but in emptying as many bottles of wine as his single arm (he had just one) could pour into his glass.

Porter describes the Alhambra as "a theater, around which the eunuchs of old guarded the gems of the harem." But, he adds, the eunuchs may not have been diligent enough. One sultan, according to legend, beheaded 36 Moorish princes because one of them was suspected of sneaking into the harem to obtain the favors of the favorite.

Harems aside, it was in Granada that Moorish art in

All star line-up at Collins Center next season

Itzhak Perlman, one of the music world's true superstars, heads an outstanding line-up of music, theatre and dance scheduled to appear at Andover's J. Everett Collins

Center for the Performing Arts next season. Perlman's recital next May 1 will inaugurate the Victor Celebrity Series, and will benefit the Andover Endowment for the Arts, the non-profit organization which is responsible for programming at the three year old facility.

Producing Directors Glen Gulezian and John Shuman, in announcing the 1985-86 line-up, promised that the Collins Center would continue to bring the best entertainment to the Merrimack Valley at reasonable prices.

The 1985-86 season begins with three contemporary music performances. Saturday, Sept. 14 John Davidson gets things off to a glittering start with one of his legendary concert performances. The New Black Eagle Jazz Band along with vocalist Carol Leigh return to the Collins Center on Saturday, Oct. 5 in a show that was a big hit during the 1983-84 season.

Buskin & Bateau, whose richly melodic and witty tunes were a Collins Center favorite last season, return on Saturday, Oct. 26 along with the talented and inventive mime duo Stamborg & Cooper.

November finds entertainment for the entire family on tap. Sunday, Nov. 3 the tradition of fine classical music continues at the Collins Center with a chamber music concert by The Borodin Trio, described by the New York Times as "a first class ensemble." Magician David Copperfield is certain to delight audiences of all ages with his performance of prestigious prestidigitation on Wednesday, Nov. 13. The Joffrey II Dance Company presents a full length ballet "Once Upon a Time" based on stories of Hans Christian Anderson on Saturday, Nov. 23.

Thanksgiving weekend will be a special one with two matinee performances of Pinocchio during the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 29. That same evening The Glen Campbell Holiday Show will help start the season off on a joyful, musical note.

The world renowned Vienna Choir Boys present a concert of sacred songs, secular and folk music on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

Saturday, Dec. 14 finds the legendary Klezmer Conservatory and their remarkable concert of Yiddish vocal and instrumental music on the Andover stage.

Plans are being finalized for Another Stroll Down Memory Lane, the Collins Center popular evening of 50s rock and roll. Last year's "Stroll" featured Bobby Rydell, pizza and a sock hop, and Gulezian and Shuman promise even more fun this time around, slated for Saturday, Jan. 11.

Saturday, Jan. 25, one of folk music's biggest names, Arlo Gutrie makes his first visit to the Collins Center.

Master pianist David Buechner will perform a recital of classical music on Thursday, Jan. 16. Just one year ago, the New York Times hailed this "extraordinary young artist, who has it all...intelligence, integrity, and all-encompassing technical prowess."

The 40th Anniversary national touring production of Brigadoon, Lerner & Loewe's glorious musical fantasy hits the boards in Andover for one performance only on Monday, Feb. 3.

Classical music returns to the Collins Center on Sunday, Feb.

16 with the heralded Muir String Quartet in concert. Critics have predicted the ensemble is "destined to become one of the great chamber ensembles of our time."

The Flying Karamazov Brothers bring the arts of juggling and comedy (not to mention philosophy) to new heights with every performance as Andover audiences will discover on Thursday, Feb. 27. This is a hilarious show for the entire family.

The "dynamic and breathtaking" Bill Cratty Theatre will make its Collins Center debut on Saturday, March 15.

Thursday, May 1 will be Itzhak Perlman in concert. The season is currently slated to conclude with the fabulous Ballet Hispanico on Friday, May 9.

Tickets are available for the entire schedule, for partial subscriptions and on an individual show basis. ## Picture-Perfect Values on Outdoor Cedar Furniture.

Picture yourself at a Walpole showroom. You'll be delighted to see our wide selection of outdoor furniture, some at the lowest prices ever. You'll see a variety of styles constructed of 100% northern white cedar which has the strongest resistance to moisture and decay, and weathers to a natural silvery sheen. You'll see furniture designed for comfort and strength, with extra-strong bracing and mortise and tenon joints that are glued and then pinned. Furniture that is practically maintenance free.

Furniture that reflects Walpole's fifty-plus years of pride, craftsmanship and Yankee ingenuity.

Quality is always a value.

Besides our specials, we'll be happy to show you the finest quality furniture, accessories, cedar fences and small buildings—hundreds of beautiful, natural ways to enhance your yard, garden and home, and make your outdoor living picture-perfect. Come into one of our showrooms and see for yourself.

MOVIE REVIEWS

Rochelle Flynn

Prizzi's Honor D.A.R.Y.L. The Slugger's Wife

Prizzi's Honor Starring Jack Nicholson, Kathleen Turner, Angelica Huston, William Hickey. Directed by John Huston. Produced by John Foreman. Screenplay by Richard Condon and Janet Roach. Based upon Condon's novel of the same title. Rated R (profanity, violence, adult themes).

Prizzi's Honor is an old-fashioned kind of flick. There's a boy who chases the American dream: he finds a good job, works hard, makes money. Then the boy meets a girl and marries her. How much more classic can you get? There is however, a twist. The boy is a mafia hit man and the girl is a free-lance contract killer.

Jack Nicholson, as the killer with a soft spot for a golden girl (Kathleen Turner) from L.A. should not only win an academy award for his performance, he should be canonized! Nicholson speaks impeccably Brooklyn gangsterese and can make an entire scene by simply rolling his eyes. The man can produce laughter simply by opening his mouth, and succeeded in doing so throughout the film.

Because the picture is so damnably amoral, the ludicrous situations are quite believable, more so than in most gangster films. When Nicholson discovers the less-than-sunny past of his bride-to-be, he quite sincerely states, "I can't decide whether to ice her or marry her."

Based on the novel by Richard Condon, the greatest sin to the members of The Family is to behave dishonorably. Killing and stealing are o.k., as long as you honor your parents, marry within the Catholic Church and never disgrace The Family. The ironies are piled one atop the other until Maerose (Angelica Huston), a woman wronged by Nicholson, works within the system to bring about the chilling denouement.

Aside from the excellent technical qualities of the film, director John Huston selected his cast with care. Turner has always sizzled in sensuous roles, and is adept as the woman who can kill someone in the afternoon and go home to cook dinner. But, her role simply is not as plum as Angelica Huston's. Turner is almost an Everywoman in this film, and it is too idealistic for her to really sink her teeth into.

Angelica, on the other hand, as the lusty, unloved granddaughter of the don has finally emerged from small bits and B movies to display her graceful talents. The don of the Prizzi family is played by William Hickey, who aged some thirty years to play the shrunken, tough, 84-year-old patriarch with such conviction that you can nearly hear a death rasp when he speaks.

Director Huston is an old man, and better one of his last films be this inky black comedy than the dolorous Under the Volcano. He captures every gesture and nuance of his characters, and creates comedy by simply flashing an airplane across the screen. Prizzi's Honor can stand proudly beside The Maltese Falcon, The Treasure of Sierra Madre and The African Queen. It can also claim the honor of

Poem

THE OLD VILLAGE SCHOOL.
The Village School is empty now.

It's shabby and forlorn
The grass is long around its frame

And the children all have gone.
It seems to miss their prattle.

Their glee when school was done,
Lessons all forgotten

When dismissal bell was rung.
Many scholars have been dismissed

By the bell in the Old Village School,
No more to sit at their little desks

To learn the golden rule.
The Old Swimming Hole is standing, too.

'Neath the shelter of the trees
Unruffled and still except perhaps

By the touch of a summer's breeze.
But each night when the world is sleeping

And the stars appear in view,
The children come back to the Schoolhouse

And file in two by two.
Johnnie, and Mary and Tommie.

All are assembled there
The Schoolmaster, too, looks over his specs

Lolling back in his swivel chair.
The splash that is heard in the water,

Which always took place after school.
Is the children again running pell mell

The world goes on with its dreaming.

And hears not the Old School Bell,
And the stars in their all night vigil

Will never, never tell.
The Village School is empty now.

It's shabby and forlorn,
The grass is long around its frame

And the children all have gone.
Dorothy C. McDougough
Woburn

being one of the top five films of the year. It doesn't matter that the year is only half over, not many pictures could top this.

D.A.R.Y.L. Starring Barret Oliver, Mary Beth Hurt, Michael McKean, Josef Sommer. Directed by Simon Wincer. Produced by John Heyman. Written by David Ambrose, Allan Scott and Jeffrey Ellis. (Profanity, violence in one scene.)

Do you want to have some F.U.N.? Then stay away from D.A.R.Y.L., or you will just be B.O.R.E.D.

Daryl is a grade-school aged boy (Barret Oliver) who is placed as a foster child into the loving home of Mary Beth Hurt and Michael McKean. He is, however, a little different, as you may have gathered from the way he spells his name. It wouldn't be fair to say why he is so different, as it might spoil what little suspense there is in this film for those of you who insist upon seeing it.

What this reviewer kept wondering — as there was a lot of time to think while watching this movie — is why the producers didn't try to sell this to television. There is very little tension, too much predictability and a large dose of mediocrity in this film. Plot holes are large enough to lose a person in and major acting talents are wasted.

If D.A.R.Y.L. had been made for T.V., these problems would have been accepted as part of the medium. No one expects a classic when they watch the Movie of the Week, which is why people talk, knit and eat while watching television. But, when you pay good money to be trapped for two hours with nothing to do but stare at the screen, inferiority literally stares you in the face.

Much of what is wrong with this flick is the simplistic tone it takes. Perhaps children won't figure things out immediately, but adults will. The army as the bad guys are stereotypical buffoons, and almost everyone else in the picture has sugar dripping in their veins. Hurt, who is an excellent actress, should perhaps use a little discretion when selecting her roles in the future. McKean as the nice-guy dad is a bit blah, and doesn't shine as he does when doing comedy (This is Spinal Tap, "Laverne and Shirley").

With the myriad of summer flicks looming on the celluloid horizon, wait until D.A.R.Y.L. finally does show up on the boob tube — you will be much more amused.

The Slugger's Wife Starring Rebecca de Mornay, Michael O'Keefe, Martin Ritt, Randy Quaid, Cleavant Derricks. Directed by Hal Ashby. Produced by Ray Stark. Written by Neil Simon. Rated PG-13. (Profanity, simulated sex) loses girl, boy gets girl back type of movie. Unfortunately, there is very little substance beyond the basics.

The Slugger's Wife is basically a boy meets girl, boy

It is not that de Mornay's and O'Keefe's performances are inept, they aren't. It's just that they are too darn nice, and not terribly electric together. Part of this, of course, is because Neil Simon's screenplay is very predictable, and we expect a happy ending between two happy people who are happy to be in love — because that is the stuff of which Simon's more recent scripts are made.

It is Randy Quaid and Cleavant Derricks as two pub crawling buddies, along with their manager, Martin Ritt, who are in the best scenes in the film.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

Off to the horizon, flashes and distant rumbling warn that a thunderstorm will soon come sweeping through the area. Black clouds seem to boil with energy as the rain starts, first gently, then harder and finally, in a down pour. Then lightning flashes like jagged tongues of fire, come burning down from the sky. Each flash is punctuated with sound of thunder that cracks the air then tapers off like the rumble of kid's marbles rolling across an oaken floor. One of the safest places to be during such a storm is in your car surrounded by metal since the electricity will flow around rather than through a person. My Uncle Matthew took an "iron pill" every day for years, then unfortunately he was caught in a rain storm and thereafter slowly started to rust away.

Some of the people I met as I walked the bounds of the area was Jack Coakley who said that he reads Woodchips and always wondered who wrote it. Jack is a real "tank full" person so I wasn't surprised to learn that he is in the oil business in Winchester. Olin Brown and his lovely wife Lorraine of Woburn as well as Robert Bergeron and Eliana Buonopane are also fans of mine. Robert is with the B&M Railroad. He told me his grandfather told him that an elderly gentleman was killed by a weasel while crossing the tracks. He didn't hear the train's weasel.

My wife Kathy went to the beauty parlor last week and for three days she looked beautiful, then the mud fell off.

George Guyette and Dan MacMaster went through Boot Camp at the Marine Corps Base at Camp LeJeune, North Carolina, when Drill Sgt. Wally Hill gave this command. "When I give the order 'eyes right' I want it executed so quick that I can hear the eyeballs click!"

Here are more of my friends in that elite corps, the MDC police, Sgt. Al Avola, Paul Pierce, Ernest Courtney and Ron Powers, both at the K-9 detail at Stone Zoo. Also, Bob Giguere, Sgt. Andy Roach, Lt. Robert MacDonald, Bill Parsons, Sgt. William MacKay and Sgt. Albert Simon. They are all faithful readers of the Middlesex East area papers.

Neil Nottebart of Stoneham was welcomed in as a new member in the Wakefield Lodge of Elks. Your daughter, Michele Nottebart and her friend Andrea Cefali of Winchester are certainly qualified to be future school teachers because they both have a lot of "class."

My great grandfather was tried and convicted of stealing a horse. He received a "suspended sentence." He was "hung."

After a fire and brimstone sermon the congregation was asked "all those who want to go to Heaven stand up." Everyone sprung up except one little old gentleman in the front pew. The clergyman went down put his hand on his shoulder and said, "Brother don't you want to go to Heaven when you die?" "Oh, when I die! I thought you was making up a bus load now!"

I have a tip for my friend Charlie and Tilly Cefalo of Stoneham, who love their vegetable garden. They plant one row of potatoes then one row of onions and so on. The onions make the eyes of the potatoes water, making the garden self irrigating.

Mr. Furio Bracciotti, owner of the Stoneham Pharmacy for 52 years has decided to retire. Furio you have served the community well taking extra time and care to explain how the doctor's prescription should be taken. You have been a friend and counselor to many in Stoneham and vicinity. Woodchips wishes you good luck and good health in your retirement.

Sometimes directions can be confusing. My Aunt Maria was told to take two aspirins after a hot bath. When she was asked if she took the aspirins she said, "I haven't finished taking the hot bath yet."

W.C. Field's statement about children and dogs, not withstanding, I love children, but I do a slow burn whenever I see a kid standing in front of an open refrigerator saying, "let me see, I don't like the left-over chicken and I don't like the cheese or any of those cold cuts." Then he says to me "how about a dollar so I can get a Big Mac?" At that moment I would like to "drop kick" him right out the door. I was brought up in a house where the choice was "take it or leave it."

Do you want to get back at your neighbor? Buy each one of his kids a drum.

Any fisherman who makes his living fishing on the Grand Banks will tell you what I know, "the best boats are built in Nova Scotia, by men of integrity. They are built for seaworthiness in fair, calm storms or gales, your life can depend on it. My Aunt Maria asked the captain of her first ocean cruise, "captain do ships this size sink often?" Trying to calm her down, he put his arm on her shoulder and said "no ma'am, only once."

Folks if you don't like "spaghetti," you must be "anti-pasta." I bet many readers agree with some of my critics who told me, "You must have been born without wisdom teeth because you're just plain 'stupid.'"

If I was a movie scout, I wouldn't hesitate a minute in signing up two beautiful young ladies, Kathleen Swindell, from Danvers and UNH student, Chris Chipman of Saugus. Folks, that's what Woodchips is all about, meeting and then mentioning in the column people like these two lovely ladies.

Jan McCluskey and Bobby Feudo work in an auto parts shop. Just give them the make and model of almost any car and the part you need will be on the counter before you can wink an eye. But there is one commodity that they and no one else can seem to find a remedy for, and that's the "nut" behind the steering wheel.

MDC Officer Charles Smith is a prosecutor for the police dept. He had an interesting case last week. Officer Robert Giguere had arrested a man for refusing to obey an order. He had stopped the gentleman who had a penguin in the back of his pickup truck. He was told to bring the penguin to the zoo. The next day the same man with the penguin, this time wearing sunglasses was stopped again. "I thought I told you yesterday to bring it to the zoo?" "I did," said the confused man. "It was such a beautiful sunny day today, I thought I'd take it to the beach!"

Europe: Middlesex style

From S-9

Spain reached its height. When the rulers of Castile and Leon were fusing the smaller kingdoms into the larger nation of Spain, Moorish refugees from towns captured by the Christians flocked to Granada, bringing with them handicrafts and industry. Trade and commerce thrived, the fertile plain around Granada was developed by extensive irrigation, and art, letters and science flourished.

In 1492, with the fall of Granada to Ferdinand and Isabella, the last sultan, Boabdil ("the little king"), wept as he left his beautiful palace through the "gate of the seven sighs." He had cause to weep. His kingdom was gone, and the Spanish monarchs may have rubbed a little salt in Boabdil's wounds, by garbing themselves in Moorish costume to receive his surrender.

Ian Robertson, in "Spain: the Mainland," wrote that the capture of Granada was hailed as a triumph throughout Christendom. But under the Christians the town fell on evil days: religious intolerance robbed it of its most industrious citizens, and the lost glory was never recaptured. By 1800 its population was as low as about 40,000.

"Although Irving," according to Porter, "credits the French with saving the Alhambra for posterity, the invaders blew up seven of the towers in 1812, but a Spanish soldier cut the fuse before more damage could be done. When the Duke of Wellington arrived a few years later, he chased out the chickens, the gypsies, and the transient beggars who were using the Alhambra as a king of tenement dwelling, and set up housekeeping himself."

But, if you do go, be alert for the gypsies — well-established in Granada since 1600 — for they still flourish there to prey on the unwary — and it is said they may even slap an occasional tourist who shows reluctance to come across with a few pesetas.

One final warning to prospective travelers: virtually everyone in Spain smokes — with the possible exception of three citizens of Bilbao, in northern Spain. So if you don't smoke, and want to avoid asphyxiation — be prepared for verbal battle or carry your own oxygen supply.

Next: The Chestnut Seller's Grave — Thoughts on Bullfights — On to Madrid.

The peregrine falcon, sometimes known as the duck hawk in the U.S., is said to fly at speeds up to 175 miles per hour.

YOUR NAME HERE
CUSTOMER SERVICE
REPRESENTATIVE

Sign up for a secure future

At most banks, it's still called "teller". But at BayBanks, we're too progressive to leave it at that. So as a Customer Service Representative, along with handling our customers' daily transactions, you'll have the valuable opportunity to receive paid training. You will learn about our products and services, and have the opportunity to suggest those most appropriate to meet each customer's needs.

But the benefits are something we haven't changed. They're comprehensive and offered to any customer service rep working at least 20 hours per week; paid holidays and vacation, medical insurance, paid personal and sick days, tuition reimbursement, life and accident insurances, a retirement/pension plan, and more.

If you enjoy working with people and figures — and ideally but not necessarily have some cash-handling background — there are full-time and part-time openings available at branch offices throughout the Woburn area. For a convenient appointment, please call 387-5100, Ext. 3081, BayBank/Middlesex. An Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Strawberry picking and bells ringing

By William Pacino

Strawberries, those red, delicious summertime treats are ready to appear at roadside stands, farmers markets and "pick-your-own" farms throughout the Bay State, according to the Mass. Department of Food and Agriculture.

These pick-your-own farms are fun to visit and provide an enjoyable outing for the entire family. For a complete listing of farms in the Bay State, write to the Mass. Department of Food and Agriculture, 100 Cambridge St., Boston, MA 02202 or call 727-3018.

When picking berries in the store or on the farm, choose glossy, full-colored fruit and avoid bruised or soft berries. The medium-sized berries tend to be sweeter. Store berries unwashed in the refrigerator in a shallow dish so air can circulate. Berries will keep this way for days. When preparing, wash berries, then take off the small green cap. Washing berries without the cap dilutes flavor and nutrients.

Farmers Market
This year, the Lowell Farmers

Market opened at Lucy Larcom Park, off Merrimack Street on May 17 and will continue every Friday through October. Hours are 10 AM to 3 PM. Fruits, vegetables, jams, jellies, preserves, honey, plants, flowers, baked goods, and other products will be offered for sale. Entertainment and arts and crafts are also planned. Parking is available at the Market Street Garage and at the Lowell National Historic Park lot on Dutton Street.

Coming Attractions

Carillon recitals

The Ninth Annual series of summer recitals will be given on the 37-bell carillon in Phillips Academy's Memorial Tower on six successive Tuesday evenings, beginning July 2 at 7 PM. The first hour-long recital will feature Sally Slade Warner, Carillonneur of Phillips Academy, playing a varied program including music originally composed for carillon, arrangements of familiar melodies, and transcriptions.

The public is invited free of charge. Bring lawn chairs, blankets, and picnic suppers. Printed programs and brochures about the carillon will be available in the stand at the tower door. The best listening places will be noted on the back of the program. In case of rain, listen from your car. The tower is located at the corner of Main (route 28) and Salem Streets, just south of the Andover business district.

Other recitalists in this year's series will include Andre Wagemans, city carillonneur of Tienen, Belgium; Beverly Buchanan, Carillonneur of Christ Church Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan; Suzanne Gates of West Hartford, Conn.; and Carolyn Reiser of Jacksonville, Florida. An added attraction at the July 16 program will be an exhibit of classic automobiles by the North Shore Old Car Club (rain date: July 23).

a reading of the newest play by Israel Horowitz, "The Year of the Duck". On Sunday, July 7, Michael Brady's "Semper Fi" will be presented. All readings begin at 7 PM at the Blackburn Tavern, Two Main Street, Gloucester. Tickets are $6 each, or one ticket for all three nights is available for $15. For further information and reservations, call 281-4099.

From the world of "pick-your-own" strawberries to the resurgence of a Massachusetts farmers market, from the 37-bell carillon in Andover, to dramatic readings in Gloucester, Coming Attractions moves around in search of good times and interesting happenings. But we could always use your assistance in discovering new events. If you know of adventures of interest to all, write, care of this local newspaper, and tell us all it. Music, food, entertainment, we love them all.

World Premieres

The Gloucester Stage Company will present readings of three new American plays during the weekend of July 5 through 7. The weekend begins Friday, July 5 with a reading of a new play scheduled for Broadway production next season - Douglas Steinberg's "Nighthawks", Saturday, July 6, the GSC will present
